Hijackers Issue New Ultimatum

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — With one pilot dead and 86 hostages still aboard, the hijackers of a West German airliner set a second ransom deadline today, but it passed without any word that their threat to blow up the plane had been carried out.

The four hijackers had demanded the release of 13 terrorists imprisoned in West Germany and Turkey and payment of $15 million, but no effort to meet the demands was reported by the 10 a.m. EDT deadline.

The Lufthansa Boeing 737 jet remained on the ground in Mogadishu, Somalia — the sixth stop since it was commandeered Thursday over France. A Somali official said it was being refueled.

Somalia's official radio said the second ultimatum was given to the West German charge d'affaires in Somalia who talked to the terrorists on the steps of the aircraft.

The West German government let a Sunday deadline pass without any attempt at compliance and was silent today as the new deadline passed.

The airliner landed in Somalia today, and shortly after the body of one of the two pilots was put off the plane, the Somali minister of information reported.

There was no announcement of how the pilot died. But a West German radio correspondent in Nairobi said a secretary in the Somali information ministry told him by telephone the man was shot after the plane landed.

It was believed that the dead man was the chief pilot, 37-year-old Juergen Schumann of Babelshausen, West Germany, near Frankfurt.

His wife Monika, who has sons aged 11 and 2, told a German newspaper last week that he had expected his plane might be hijacked some day and told her: "If that happens, just stay calm. I'm not the type for dangerous heroics."

The death left 82 passengers and four crew members aboard the plane with the four hijackers. There was speculation that it would be dangerous for the plane to take off without a replacement pilot.

The official Somali news agency said information Minister Abdi Qassim Falaad told it the plane landed in Mogadishu at 6:20 a.m. "and very soon afterward the body of the pilot was slid down out of the plane."

A spokesman for the Somali embassy in Nairobi said the plane was being refueled and was expected to take off again later in the day. But the Somali news agency formed a ministerial committee including the West German ambassador to negotiate with the hijackers.

SAILBOAT GROUNDED: The final sail of the season for a Chicago-based sailboat turned into a nightmare Saturday as the 30-foot-long vessel went aground on the Lake Michigan beach south of South Haven. Owner Ed Johnson told Coast Guardsmen he was about four miles from South Haven at 5:30 p.m. Saturday when winds tore a main sail. Johnson said he was unable to start an engine and boat was washed ashore. Efforts by the Coast Guard to assist were thwarted by high waves. A private salvage company was to attempt to free the boat today. Boat, valued at $30,000, did not appear to be damaged. Johnson and two passengers were not injured. Johnson said he was enroute from Chicago to South Haven where boat was to be stored for the winter. (Tom Renner photo)

Friend Tells How Doctor Planned His Own Suicide

SWARTHMORE, Pa. (AP) — Morgan Sibbett and Wallace Proctor shared a final dinner and reflected on the brilliant sunset. Dr. Proctor then went upstairs and quietly died — all according to plan, Sibbett says.

MORGAN SIBBETT
Shared Final Days

"We had said good-bye adequately. Nothing could be added," said Sibbett, an engineer befriended by Proctor when the two met while working in the oil fields of Saudi Arabia in 1939.

Proctor, 75, a dermatologist from Pocatello, Idaho, was wracked by advancing Parkinson's disease. He wrote relatives in July that medicine he took to control the trembling of his hands required ever increasing doses.

"Some of you may look upon suicide with uneasiness or disfavor, but it may also represent a logical, considerate and effective means to satisfy one's responsibility to the world," Proctor wrote family members on July 30.

According to Sibbett, Proctor chose to die here because he knew suicide was not a crime in Pennsylvania and he was concerned about taking his life in Pocatello, where his wife, Marie, works as a nurse.

Sibbett told the prosecutor that Proctor "wanted those last days to be peaceful and free from melodrama. And they were in a measure that is difficult to imagine."

Hazel says he will not bring charges against Sibbett and that, as far as the county is concerned, the case is closed.

"What, in effect, Mr. Sibbett said he did here was to allow Dr. Proctor to be at his home, to offer him support and pleasant surroundings where he could be comfortable," Hazel said.

Pennsylvania law makes it an offense only to aid in a person's suicide, with the offense a second-degree felony if the attempt results in death and a second-degree misdemeanor if it does not.

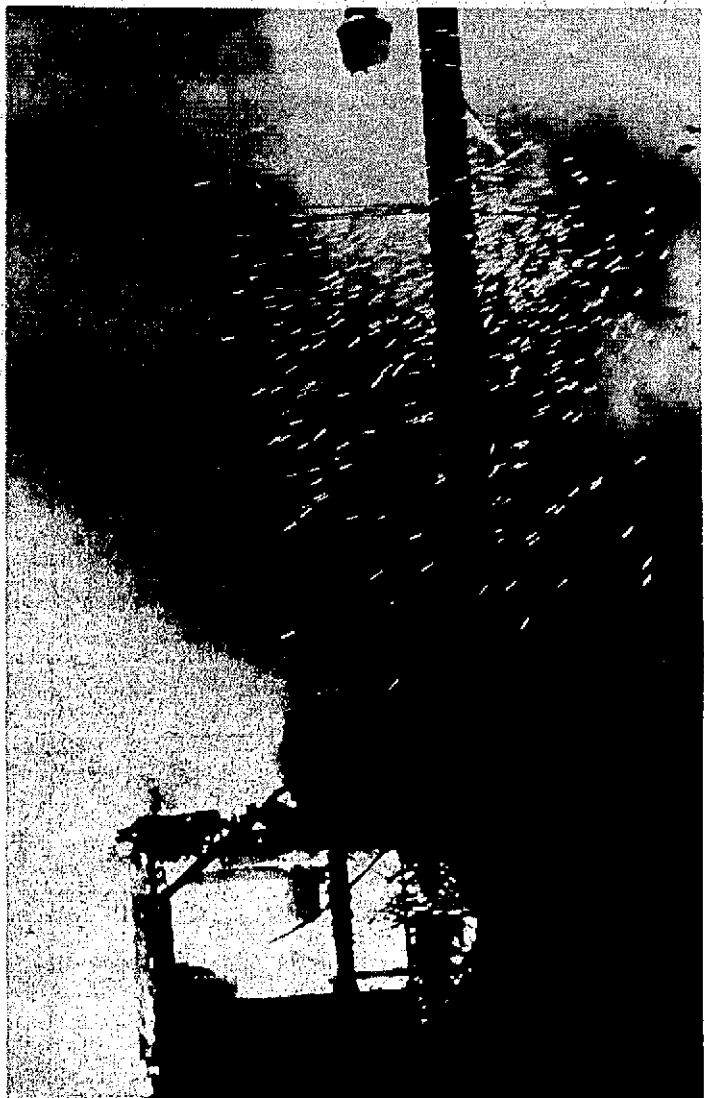

Sibbett said his wife, Johanna, knew of the plan, approved of it and arranged to be away from home for the last five days the two old friends would spend together.

Proctor's death. Asked why he waited two months to tell the story, Sibbett said word had begun to spread around his community and that he preferred to go on record himself with the entire account.

An obituary prepared as part of the plan closed simply by saying Proctor's "death, by overdose of barbiturates, occurred in Swarthmore at the home of Morgan Sibbett, who was his friend."

SHOWER OF SPARKS: Fire Saturday night that destroyed an unoccupied two-story house and garage in Lincoln township also caused shower of sparks when electric wires outside home caught fire. Cause of blaze which destroyed home and garage owned by Harvey Cobel of St. Joseph remains under investigation by authorities. Structures were located a half-mile off north end of Lake Forest Road near Glenford beach. Haskel Starbuck, Tri-Unit Fire Department assistant chief, said high winds off Lake Michigan fanned flames and both house and garage were engulfed when firemen arrived. Cobel was found near scene and taken to Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, for treatment. (C.C. Brooks photo)

Medicaid Overpays $1 Billion A Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal and state governments are wasting $1 billion in tax money a year in ineligible Medicaid payments, says the secretary of health, education and welfare.

Secretary Joseph Califano Jr. said Sunday that 4.7 million ineligible claims totaling $229 million were paid between April and September 1976.

"Now, if you project that for a year — that is just federal dollars — that is almost half a billion dollars, and the states are matching those payments; that is another half billion dollars," Califano said.

"So just in terms of ineligible payments, we are throwing $1 billion a year away in this country."

The figures, taken from HEW's computerized review of Medicaid transactions, include payments to health care providers, such as doctors, and to recipients.

Califano commented on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers."

The review was instituted in April because the program for the needy has "grown like Topsy," but has received "inadequate attention" for several years, Califano said.

Called Project Integrity, the computer review already has looked at 250 million transactions involving pharmacists and physicians. It found 47,000 were questionable or improper.

HEW has sent the 2,500 most serious cases to the states, which are beginning investigations of doctors and pharmacists in their jurisdictions. More cases will be referred to states in the future, Califano said.

The department previously announced some of its specific findings. For instance, a doctor said he performed three tonsillectomies on the same patient last year. A pharmacist filed a claim for 120 pills a day for 204 consecutive days for one person.

Califano also predicted the U.S. Supreme Court will uphold special school admissions programs for minority students.

He called it "perfectly legitimate" for schools to seek minority candidates and added, "I find it inconceivable that the court will rule in favor of Bakke."

Allan Bakke, who is white, claimed he was denied admission to medical school in California while less qualified minority candidates were accepted under a special admissions program.

The California Supreme Court ruled Bakke was a victim of reverse discrimination, and the University of California at Davis appealed. The U.S. Supreme Court heard oral arguments last week and is due to rule before the end of its term next summer.

Bing Crosby Described Himself Very Accurately

Since Bing Crosby died on a golf course in Spain last weekend, there has been an outpouring of printed and broadcast comment that the 73-year-old singer was universally "loved."

Bob Thomas, Associated Press film writer, for example, wrote Sunday that "it was a love affair between Bing Crosby and the world. The public adored and embraced his smooth way with a melody, his insouciant charm, his off-candid manner..."

There is a possibility that while the people of the world loved Bing's singing, they did not necessarily think of him personally as a warm, lovable human being. At least, Bing himself feared that he had a cold image with the public, a reputation for being a "loner." He said so, as a matter of fact, in a newspaper column he wrote for this past Saturday's edition of the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner.

"It is alleged by some careless people," he wrote "that I am 'a loner' — a cold fish without sentiment or convivial instincts. Now, I don't suppose there are many people who really care or who are really interested in whether I'm any of these things, or all of them. But I care. A lot..."

"I really think I'm extremely gregarious. Actually, I know more people from more different walks of life and levels of society than anyone I ever heard of except perhaps only Bob Hope — and, of course, he's ubiquitous..."

"I have played golf, shot, fished and consorted with kings, princes, heads of state, jockeys, seniors, juniors, pros — both men and women — doctors, lawyers, famous amateurs — male and female — artists, painters, hustlers, drunks, financiers, toots, writers, and scientists, every kind of athlete, in practically every country in the world..."

He gives a couple reasons why he thinks he may have developed the image of a loner.

"One is that, unlike many big entertainment stars, he never took an entourage with him. He liked to walk and drive alone to parties, golf matches, even to work. That's when 'I did my best thinking'."

The other reason he explains this way:

"I have so many friends in show business — old and valued friends — but I have just as many friends who know nothing about show business. When I finished a picture or a job on TV, I was gone the next day — golfing, shooting, traveling — without a thought of or a connection with any part of the entertainment world.

"Now maybe some of the people I've worked with may have thought this indicated I didn't care for their company. Not at all. I love them all. Never had a disagreement with anyone in any cast of any picture I ever worked in. Truly, I had great fun and many laughs with most of them. I can't think of a single film in which we didn't have laughs, gags, ribs going all the time. 'I never had a director who I didn't like' personally. Some of them I adored. I had a few beefs with some producers over song material once or twice. Nothing serious. Otherwise, it was all just a breeze."

In the newspaper column, Bing gives a couple other estimates of himself:

"Sentimental? Acutely. When I see three U.S. athletes mount the risers at the Olympic Games to receive the medals, and they play our National Anthem, I'm very misty-eyed."

"Newsreels or TV films of American troops in faraway places fighting, suffering, and dying affect me deeply."

"It makes me very sad to see people embarrassed or treated shabbily in public."

"Honestly, I would have to say that I'm really a sofie."

It's too bad that Bing Crosby felt compelled to defend his public image. Because, in reality, his own description of himself as a loving friend to many, as a "sofie" is apparently extremely accurate. In the wake of his death, it is developing that those who knew him best loved him best.

His children, other relatives, business associates, nameless employees have shown what seems genuinely deep grief at Bing's passing. And everywhere the good words, sincere words pour in. Whether it's Bob Hope, Curt Gowdy, John Brodie, John Wayne, Dorothy Lamour or Merv Griffin — they all say the same thing: Bing was a good and loyal friend; he bent over backwards not to appear a "big shot;" he was blessed with a sunny disposition, fun to be with; and he really did care about people — all people.

Bing Crosby's death at 73 is not tragic. He had a great and full life; he left the world a legacy of beautiful music. But there's a touch of sadness all the same in thinking he was uncertain how the world felt about him. Millions, had they known, would have written to reassure him.

Britain's Prince Charles Following Old Tradition

It is no secret that the most accomplished roving ambassadors in the world today are the members of the British royal family. Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip have been globe-trotting separately or together for the past quarter-century, winning friends wherever they went. But their two eldest children also have logged extensive travel time. Prince Charles and Princess Anne spent three days in the United States in 1970, and Anne paid a return visit earlier this year. Now Charles, too, is coming back.

The heir apparent to the British throne will arrive in Chicago tomorrow, Oct. 18, on the first stop of a 12-day, 13-city tour that will take him to several different parts of the country — with the notable exception of the Northeast. Washington, D.C., is not on the itinerary either, possibly because Charles' previous visit was confined to the national capital area. At his final stop in Sacramento Oct. 28, the prince is scheduled to have lunch with California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. A spokesman for the governor said the meal will be casual. "Maybe a bean sprout sandwich or something just as simple. I would like to see them go off by themselves and just have a really good talk."

Charles' tour of this country accords with a century-old tradition. His great-great-grandfather, later to be King Edward VII, visited the United States in 1880 and posed for photographs at Mathew Brady's studio. At that time Edward was the Prince of Wales, as Charles is today. Charles' great-uncle, the future Edward VIII, came to this country in 1924 and was lionized by the press. The current Prince of Wales is not so dashing a figure as his two predecessors, but that hardly matters if the visitor is certifiably royal.

HE OBJECTS TO NEW HUNTING FEE

Editor:
I think that the new laws and regulations concerning the required land owners permission slip is unjust to the farmer and hunter. Each and every hunter that has went afoot, and is going to hunt the 1977 hunting season has been over-charged one dollar apiece by the State of Michigan. In accordance to the state law requiring written permission from said landowners and farmers, taking their time, which is valuable, away from their work is unfair. To sign a permission slip to hunt on their property.

What's happened to the verbal gentlemen's agreement that has been good enough since our forefathers started this great country?

My two sons and I feel that if we have to pay, then we shall pay the landowners and farmers one dollar; for each hunter to hunt on his land or marsh or the State of Michigan should reimburse said landowner or farmer through his taxes the millions of dollars that are being obtained by this new hunting law.

Ralph Pallas
Stevensville

P.S. A word to all hunters, hunt well, stay away from buildings, livestock, respect the corn fields, soybeans, winter wheat, and all other fruits and vegetables that have not yet been harvested. These are his livelihood. Hunters, let's join together and regain and maintain the respect and welfare of all property owners and by doing so, with your help, maybe this will be the end of such laws as this one now in effect.

HE MATH TEACHER TELLS HIS SIDE

Editor:
It amazes me that an intelligent labor relations attorney has difficulty understanding what students understand. I agree with him. "The real losers in 'on' disruption" of school are the students!" and also concur that in our situation it is difficult to "help young students to learn about responsibility."

Many students might ask how come this attorney gets $70 an hour for labor relations when he has a highly capable Group Director of Personnel and Labor Relations? Why hassle over sick leave when you as a teacher are here, every day? Why do teachers have to fight for pay owed them since the experience increments are on a yearly basis? Why argue about insurance carrier when the alternative is for much less coverage at less than a dollar difference in cost? The Board is willing to pay more of your cost if you choose their carrier, aren't they? How does a 6 percent salary increase equal a 3.8 percent salary increase?

You see my difficulty. I am a mathematics teacher and cannot answer these questions in my own mind let alone students' minds. I guess that is where I am irresponsible and the labor relations attorney is not.

LAWMAKERS DEFEND SENATE BILL 419

Editor:
There has been considerable controversy surrounding Senate Bill 419, its veto by the Governor and the subsequent override by the Legislature. Having served on the Administrative Rules Committee, we feel most members of the press and the public are unaware of the present procedures and the extent to which they will be changed by SB-419.

The Administrative Procedures Act was enacted to assure that administrative rules implementing statutes were formulated in an open, responsive manner. After notice is given and public hearings are held, a state agency formulates a set of rules implementing a statute. Before rules can be formally adopted and implemented, the Administrative Rules Committee has two months to review them and to assure they are in accordance with the intent of the original statute. At the present time, and until Jan. 1, 1978, if the Committee does not feel the rules are in compliance they must first vote to disapprove, then introduce a concurrent resolution in either house of the legislature and pass the resolution by a majority in each house within one month after introduction.

— 10 Years Ago —

In an historic move, the Berrien county board of supervisors voted Monday to throw the county's full faith and credit behind a $2 million water line to serve the Pipestone Industrial district and the new Lake Michigan college campus in Benton township. Water in the industrial district loop should be just the thing to kick off land sales to companies in the 50-acre Pipestone industrial district, a three-and-a-half year old industrial park that should eventually provide work for 5,000 employees and hold $80 million in plants, says John Chapman, manager of the Twin Cities Area Chamber of Commerce. Supervisors yesterday tentatively approved an agreement for the Board of Public Works to issue $2 million project finance bonds that will be repaid by Benton township. As far as can be determined, this is the first time the county has ever put its credit behind a bond issue for one of its subdivisions.

An artificial heart, successfully used on a 41-year-old man, was reported today by the Journal of the American Medical Association. The heart pump was used at Detroit's Harper hospital, where it was developed by a Detroit team of medical and engineering researchers. The team reported that the artificial heart took over "complete function of maintaining blood supply of the body" of the patient for 56 minutes while the patient's heart was opened and worked upon by surgeons. Medical researchers said this was believed the first known survival of a patient's survival through use of an artificial heart-lung mechanism.

Trying To Make Sense In Secrecy

WASHINGTON — Only once does the word "secrecy" appear in the Constitution, a reference to the right of each house of Congress to withhold portions of its "Journal of Proceedings." But by 1790, the government already was in the business of "classifying" information.

President George Washington that year asked the Senate to approve a "secret" article in a proposed treaty with the Creek Indians. Two years later, a controversy erupted over "secret" reports from military officers campaigning against Indians in the Northwest.

The federal government's basic "housekeeping statute," passed by Congress in 1789, authorized federal departments and agencies to provide for the "custody, use and preservation of records." Bureaucrats have claimed ever since that the references to "custody" and "preservation" allow them to deny public access to records.

The review, classification, protection and destruction of government secrets today is a thriving, multimillion-dollar industry in Washington. Four of the seven men who have served as president since World War II have issued executive orders designed to overhaul the system, and President Carter is about to join the crowd.

For those concerned about the mindless expansion of a security classification system which often serves as little more than a mechanism for hiding from public view the incompetence and ineptness of government employees, the draft now being circulated by the White House goes a long way, but not quite far enough, toward bringing about needed reform.

Under the current system, a document classified "top secret" retains that status for 10 years, "secret" materials are withheld for eight years and "confidential" materials cannot be made public for six years. Not satisfied with that, however, declassification process, bureaucrats have abused a loophole in the existing regulations by routinely stamping "exempt from automatic downgrading" in papers they hope the public will never see.

The Carter proposal would limit to six years the time material could remain classified, regardless of its security category. There is, however, a loophole which authorizes limited use of a 20-year extension.

One major improvement in the pending proposal is its listing, for the first time, of 13 specific criteria which must be met if a document is to receive any security classification.

Only national security and foreign policy considerations are covered by those criteria — an important change that could finally end the senseless classification of information relating exclusively to domestic affairs.

The new order retains existing language which specifically prohibits "classification" of material "in order to conceal violations of law; inefficiency or administrative error (or) to prevent embarrassment." It perpetuates, however, a set of relatively weak administrative sanctions available for use against violators.

Perhaps the most questionable feature of the Carter proposal would allow all federal departments and agencies to "require the signing of a secrecy agreement as a precondition of access to classified information."

Under that provision, a federal employee who wanted to call the attention of Congress, the press or the public to malfeasance or misfeasance within the government would face legal sanctions if the information came from classified materials.

Remembering The Victim

WASHINGTON — "We are a compassionate society and we do not need an additional program to prove it," Rep. Charles Wiggins, R-Calif., complained.

A majority of Wiggins' House colleagues felt otherwise, and quietly have passed a measure to provide limited federal help to the victims of violent crime. It was only a small step, and funds were carefully circumscribed, but it represented formal congressional recognition that this country has been more concerned with the rights of criminals than the rights of innocent people they have injured.

In a sense, it was also a concession that the billions of dollars poured into state and federal programs to prevent crime have not succeeded and that society has an obligation to remember the victims of that failure.

This nation generously gives criminals the benefit of free legal representation, free psychiatric counseling, free job training — and, however inadequate, at rehabilitation. The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, for instance, has approved a $5,000 grant for poetry seminars and finger painting lessons in jail. This attitude was recently carried to absurd extremes by a Wisconsin judge who refused to punish a boy for raping a girl because, he said, the boy was only acting "normally"; he displayed not one moment's concern for the trauma endured by the victim nor the social stigma he placed on her by saying, in effect, it was her own fault for being around to be attacked. The judge was recalled by angry citizens, and properly so.

The House measure, as chief sponsor Rep. James Mann, D-S.C., observed, is not a perfect solution to make victims feel better. "It is a Band-Aid to the entire criminal judicial system that is not now adequately attending to the problem of violent crime in this country."

he said but at least it signals congressional concern that social policy should not totally ignore the cry of the injured and needy victims of crimes.

Under the bill, the federal government would reimburse states for 25 percent of the first $25,000 they pay to victims of violent crimes. Twenty states now have legislation to compensate crime victims; several others have indicated they would initiate similar programs if they had federal assistance.

The House was greatly worried about the cost of the program and cut back original proposals to limit the amount to $25 million in fiscal 1978, rising to $35 million in 1980. That will hardly break the bank.

The payments would cover the victims' medical bills, loss of wages, and similar expenses, but could not be used for property loss, pain and suffering, or costs that would be reimbursed from another source. The states are required to pass laws allowing judges to order convicted criminals to compensate the victim whenever possible, in order to qualify for the funds. Any person convicted of a crime who writes a book or otherwise profits financially from the deed by telling about it is also required to turn over the proceeds to the victims.

State Senate Consultants Collect Big Fees

DETROIT (AP) — Ten persons, including former state legislators and lobbyists, have collected $112,837 in fees as consultants to state senators so far this year.

The consultants are paid from $75 to $150 a day to help lawmakers do their jobs, according to a story in today's Detroit News.

Sen. William Huffman, D-Madison Heights, has three consultants. All live in his district.

"These guys are top professionals," Huffman said of his consultants, a former race track official and two former school administrators. Huffman put them on the payroll to study racing laws and education.

"If I had hired an ex-councilman who couldn't write his name, then that would be a political hack doing nothing," Huffman said.

"But when you can get a top professional person for three times less money than he's used to getting, then they're working for the love of the job and not necessarily for the few dollars they're getting."

According to the report, the highest-paid Senate consultants

now include: —Charles McNeill, who was budget aide for three Michigan governors in the 1940s and for the House and Senate appropriations committees. He retired in 1963 and later became a consultant.

McNeill, who has been paid $22,523 so far this year, is the Senate's highest-paid consultant and the only one with an office. His sponsor is Sen. Charles Zoller, R-Benton Harbor.

—Lawrence Valade, a former school superintendent in Madison Heights, works for Huffman and studies educational needs in southern Oakland County. Valade has been paid $16,700 for 165 days so far this year.

—Garland Lane, a former Democratic state senator from Flint, specializes in college medical programs. He has received $16,280 for 164 days of work for the Senate appropriations committee.

—Ralph Matkin, former Hazel Park race track owner, has been paid $12,700 for 126 days of work for Huffman.

—Thomas Woods, who lost in last year's state Appeals Court race, has been paid $12,375 for 83 days of work for the Senate Judiciary Committee. Gov.

William Milliken recently appointed Woods to head the Michigan Crime Victims Grievance Board, with a salary of $26,700.

Five others were paid between $11,100 and $2,600 for their work so far this year.

Eugene Farnum, director of the Senate fiscal agency, said paying consultants by the day is cheaper than hiring them full-time and then paying fringe benefits.

Body Of Young Man Washes Up From Lake

UNION PIER — The body of an unidentified man was found late Sunday morning washed ashore from Lake Michigan just north of Union Pier, state police at New Buffalo reported.

Trooper William Cahill said two Chicago men walking along the beach off Berrien Street saw the body and notified police at 11:28 a.m. They were identified as William Lennon and Gerald O'Malley, at O'Malley's cottage in Union Pier for the weekend.

Cahill said the body was decomposed and that Dr. John Valentini, deputy Berrien County medical examiner, said it may have been in the water as long as a month. No ruling has yet been made on the cause of death, but police said foul play is not suspected.

Police have launched an attempt to determine the man's identity, and are checking with police agencies around the lake to see if his description matched that of any person reported missing. The body had no identification papers on it, police said.

Cahill said the man was white, about 20 years old, 5 foot 6, 150 pounds, and had brown hair. His clothing, a navy blue windbreaker with nautical trim, blue jeans, Tropicana tennis shoes and light leather gloves, suggested he had been sailing, police said.

The body was taken to Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, awaiting identification, police said.

Police ruled out the possibility the man was one of two Beverly Shores, Ind., men missing since Sept. 13. The two, Steve Peak and Michael Down left a stranded boat on the lake and attempted to swim ashore. Three companions who remained in the boat survived 36 hours on the lake when the boat washed ashore near Michigan City, Ind.

The bodies of the Indiana men, who are presumed to have drowned, have not been recovered.

Cider-Sipping Time Is Here

Ghosts, goblins and just plain people know that it's cider-sipping time in Michigan, but not all know the differences between elder and apple juice, says Maryann Beckman, District Extension, Consumer Marketing Information Agent.

Mrs. Beckman continued: By law, elder and apple juice are exactly the same, but there are differences in color and flavor of the product that most often appears in the fall. Basically, elder is uncooked juice squeezed from fresh apples. The best cider is made from a blend of several apple varieties. Since some varieties are sweet, some sour, tart or bland, blending gives a more desirable flavor.

In the making of elder or apple juice, the apples are first washed, trimmed and then ground. The pulp is placed in trays where it is wrapped in press cloths and then gradually pressed by the cider press. The juice that is squeezed from the pulp is then channeled into settling tanks where the sediment is removed.

Some elder is strained, giving a clear, amber liquid, while some is cloudy from the fine bits of apple pulp that are allowed to remain in the juice. Therein lies the biggest difference between elder and apple juice. Elder is the name most often given to the cloudy product found primarily in the fall, while the filtered clear amber liquid, available year round, is most often called apple juice. There is generally no quality difference between the two so it is just a matter of preference when you choose.

Apple juice, left to its own inclination, will soon begin to ferment and "harden."

There are four methods commonly used to preserve "sweetness" in apple cider — refrigeration, freezing, pasteurization and preservation by chemicals. Refrigeration is one of the most economical, but the cider will "keep" only for seven to ten days, if that long. Most will keep only three to four days after you buy it, before turning hard.

By Michigan law, one-tenth of one per cent of sodium benzoate can be added to cider to help preserve it, too. This will help keep cider from turning for one to two weeks or longer, if refrigerated. Frozen elder will retain its fresh flavor for at least one year. If you plan to freeze some, make sure you leave at least one inch or more headspace to allow for expansion during freezing.

Pasteurization is the method most commonly used to preserve elder today. In pasteurization, the juice is "flash heated" to 170 degrees for a short period of time and then sealed in sterilized containers. A longer heating process results in a cooked taste. Pasteurized elder will keep indefinitely if unopened, but should be refrigerated and used within a week once opened.

Be sure to read the labels on the elder or apple juice you buy, so you will know how long it will keep. The label must tell if pasteurization or preservatives have been used to preserve flavor.

It is nice to know that cider is good for you as well as good. One cup contains only 120 calories plus some vitamin A and small amounts of calcium, phosphorus and vitamin B. According to law, no sugar can be added to cider so sweetness is derived from the sweetness of the apples alone. At current prices, one eight-ounce serving costs between nine and twelve cents. You get 16 eight-ounce servings per gallon.

Describes Patriots

American Revolution

By ANITA SMITH
Staff Writer

Time is a great eradicator — it blots out most unpleasantities and hardships, but Americans should all be aware of how our country's freedom was won, according to Mrs. Ralph Michael.

Mrs. Michael, chaplain of Schuyler Colfax Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, South Bend, was guest speaker at the first meeting of the 1977-78 year of Algonquin Chapter, DAR, held Oct. 13 at the home of Mrs. Chester Byrns of St. Joseph.

Mrs. Michael spoke on Patriots — "Strength to Found a Nation" in keeping with the

Book Binding Project

Algonquin Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, is undertaking the project of rebinding 117 books at the Benton Harbor Public Library, according to Mrs. Robert Whitney, chapter librarian.

The soft-covered volumes are of the "Lineage Book National Society of Daughters of the American Revolution," and are beginning to deteriorate.

Mrs. Whitney said the bindery at Andrews University has agreed to bind the books at a cost of $4.20 each.

Persons may donate to the project in honor or memory of someone or to just preserve the records, according to Mrs. Whitney.

DAR's national theme, "The way of the Lord is strength to the upright..." Proverbs 10:29. Mrs. Michael said Americans should all have better insight into their nation and what made freedom a reality. What motivated people of the Revolutionary War to react the way they did?

In the beginning, this young country looked on Great Britain as a mother country. Colonists were content and proud to be a part. America was the child and Great Britain, Mother England. Colonists obeyed and were protected, Mrs. Michael said.

After maturing, Americans felt pressed and unfairly treated. They would do something about the tight regulations and wouldn't submit blindly.

The 1765 Stamp Act aroused Colonial resistance as an act of taxation without representation. This violated their most precious rights and sparked the spirit of unity.

DAR SPEAKER: Algonquin Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held their first meeting of the club year Oct. 13. Among those attending were, from left, Mrs. Thomas Gillespie, hostess chairman, Mrs. Ralph Michael, guest speaker, and Miss Carol Hemmingsway, regent. Mrs. Michael is the author of "Don't Cry Timber," a genealogical research guide, now in its fifth printing. She has 18 years service with DAR state and chapter lineage research committees and has been an instructor of genealogical research at Indiana University, South Bend. (Staff photo)

The taxation of tea was a "bitter cup of brew the Colonists refused to swallow," Mrs. Michael said.

Americans never once lost their determination to not be pushed around.

"But what were the patriots getting themselves into?" she asked. There were no stockpiles of guns or clothing, no factories.

Every article had to be made by hand, even bullets were made by each soldier.

Emotion rather than logic motivated our ancestors. Patriots did what they could for what they believed right — freedom, equality, justice and a better way of life for themselves and those who would come after them.

Patriots were ordinary men with ordinary attributes, Mrs. Michael said, not physical towering giants. The average patriot was a farmer, just a little over 5 foot 6.

Uniforms were "catch as catch can." There was no such thing as a standard uniform. It was "whatever was handy."

General Washington's mutiny in the Continental Army was the state militia. Men could enlist for different lengths of time and return home, not because of lack of patriotism, but because of concern for the welfare of their families. They went home to plant crops and to harvest and then returned to their military duties. Many were credited with repeated enlistments.

Sick lists were always long, Mrs. Michael said. Medical supplies were limited. "It's a wonder anyone ever survived." Men listed as deserters were often men who only collapsed along the road, rejoining their regiments later.

Many of the ill were billeted in private homes, but the more serious cases were put in hospitals where smallpox was a constant threat, sanitary conditions were non-existent and gangrene, pain and delirium ran rampant.

"Not a pretty picture is it, but this is the way things were," Mrs. Michael said.

"May the Revolutionary War heroes' courage and determination of what was right rub off on us. Patriots such as they, will not only continue to make our country great today, but throughout the years to come."

Tests Turquoise Stones

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Arizona chemist has invented a test to determine the authenticity of turquoise stones used primarily in American Indian jewelry pieces.

Dr. Michael Parsons of Arizona State University at Tempe says about half of the hundreds of stones he has analyzed turned out to be fakes or low-grade stones of little value. Parsons' technique involves bathing the stones in a powerful electron beam, stirring up radiation which is analyzed by a computer.

Much of the jewelry sold as authentic American Indian handicraft is made of low-grade stones dyed and treated to look like good gems, chunks of colored glass or tiny chips of good turquoise glued carefully together to look like a single gem, according to Parsons.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Telling Someone Helps

Dear Ann Landers: This is for "Desperate" and "Arizona" (both had been raped by a relative) and anyone else out there who has had the horrible experience.

For God's sake, TELL somebody. Get it out of your system. Don't keep it locked up inside you. It can be a time bomb. I know. It happened to me.

When I was 11 years old my stepfather raped me. I was afraid to tell him so I just kept quiet and made sure we were never alone together. When I reached the boy-girl dating age — in those days it was 16 — I was terrified to let a boy hold my hand. I was so tense and frightened of any contact with a male it was agony, to even sit next to a boy in a movie. I also had terrible guilt feelings; as if I was responsible for what had happened to me when I was 11 years old.

The day after high school graduation I had a complete nervous breakdown. A wonderful doctor brought me back to the real world and I will never be able to thank him enough. It was he who taught me the importance of talking about the secret nightmare that I had kept buried in my mind for so many years. So, Ann, please print my letter and encourage other girls (especially young children) to tell somebody if they have the horrible experience — mother, sister, teacher, doctor, aunt. It can mean the difference between mental health and insanity. — Been There

Dear Friend: Your letter says it all. Thank you for sitting in my chair today. You had a lot to say and you said it better than I could.

Check Stories

Dear Ann: You told "Everybody's Mom" it would be cruel to turn away the teenage neighbor boys who had been kicked out by their parents. I know you meant well, Ann, but I hope she checks the boys' stories.

I speak from experience. Our son has run away eight times. I'm sure he wouldn't have been so quick to take off if our many well-meaning neighbors had not given him food and shelter. — Walked in Those Moccasins

Dear Moe: You have a point. The question, "May I phone your parents?" would clarify the situation. Thanks for the input.

Lonely Wife

Dear Ann Landers: My husband was married before and has two children; one is six, the other is seven. Every Sunday and holiday it's the same story. I am alone because my Dennis wants to be with his children. So off he goes and leaves me sitting alone — in tears.

(Incidentally, his ex-wife is always at home, so that means they are together — like a family.)

I told Dennis how upsetting it is to be left alone so much but he just shrugs his shoulders and says he can't force his children to come to our house — he claims he has suggested it many times and they always say no. I have never met the children so they can't have anything against me.

Should I put my foot down and tell Dennis I won't put up with it any more? Please help me, Ann. I'm really in a fix. — Blue Monday

Dear Blue: If you give Dennis an "either-or" he just might choose his children. Are you prepared for such a move?

Dennis should have some counseling. He needs to understand that he is being very unfair to you. (Apparently, you can't deliver the message effectively.) You could use some guidance, too, honey. I think your marriage is in trouble.

Even if drinking is the "in" thing in your crowd, it needs a crowd you out. Learn the facts from Ann Landers' booklet, "Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11993, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

To Reprint 1872 Cass Atlas

CASSOPOLIS — Orders are now being taken for reprinted editions of the Atlas of Cass County, Michigan, printed in 1872.

The reproduction is being sponsored by the Cass County Historical Society.

The original atlas was compiled from actual surveys and shows townships, with locations of villages, cemeteries, railroads, blacksmith shops, churches, mills, lakes and streams. Some villages included are Brownsville, Nicholsville, Charlestown and Jamestown.

The reproduction will be of special interest to those doing genealogy because of the addition of an index of landowners' names compiled by the Cass County Library staff.

Persons wishing to order a copy in black and white with soft cover may send a self-addressed stamped card or envelope to Miss Donna Kowalewski, c/o Cass County Library, 181 North Broadway, Cassopolis, Michigan 49631. A total of 500 orders are needed before printing.

Cards will be returned when the atlas is ready for purchase. Cost to be paid when purchased is $8. Cost for copies ordered after printing is $7.50.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband had a heart bypass operation. They told us one artery was completely blocked. Two were partially blocked. They only did the one artery that was completely blocked and never explained why they didn't do all three.

Also I would like to know if there is cholesterol in veal liver?

DEAR READER — A limited amount of obstruction of an artery does not decrease the blood flow through it. As long as 70 per cent of the opening is still there the fatty cholesterol deposits won't make that much difference. There is a critical level of blockage that starts causing problems. The doctors probably felt on the basis of what they could see at the operation that a bypass around the partially blocked arteries would not significantly improve your husband's circulation to the heart.

You can improve his condition though by helping him eliminate or avoid obesity and having him on the proper diet. If he smokes he should stop. The success of many bypass operations depends on what kind of program a person follows after surgery. If the person persists in eating the wrong foods, being obese and smoking, the end result is not so good.

Yes, veal liver contains cholesterol, about 300 milligrams in a 100 gram (three and a half ounce) portion of raw liver. That small serving alone will take up all the allowed cholesterol for the whole diet for one day. All forms of liver are moderately high in cholesterol content.

To help you with a diet plan I am sending you the Health Letter number 1-3, Diet, Preventing Atherosclerosis. It will give you the general principles you need to follow. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 28 years old but the growth of hair on my chest is very scarce. There is more hair on the right half of my chest than on the left. Is there some way that more hair will develop on my left side or on my upper chest as a whole? Is there a chemical imbalance that may create this problem? Would cutting or shaving the hair I have create more?

The hair growth in other areas is adequate although not in large quantities even in the public region. I hope you can give me some advice to help.

DEAR READER — The best advice I can give you is to forget about it. I suspect your friends don't even notice it.

Before you have hair on the body you have to have hair follicles. It is an inherited characteristic for some people to have fewer follicles than others.

A normal male in all respects may have little hair on the body. Some rare males are born with no significant amounts of hair anywhere, so hormones are not the answer.

Shaving your sparse hair will not help. It might cause your skin to itch but that is about all. What hair there is may be shorter and stiffer like a stubble but when it grows out it will be the same. Cutting hair does not affect its growth despite the old idea that it stimulates growth. I presume you have an adequate amount of hair on your head. Be glad you have it there rather than on your body.

Your Birthday

Oct. 18, 1877

Try to be more of an inductor this coming year than you have been in the past. You'll move much faster if you initiate rather than vegetate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're not a general so don't treat the family like your personal army today. If you do, you could have a small but costly rebellion on your hands. Find out who you're romantically suited to by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 488, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Extreme sensitivity over your pride is concerned could mar this day. It may take only a sideways glance to reduce you to tears or anger.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Beware of well-meaning friends who try to steer you to bargains today. Their recommendations could be based on erroneous information.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Somewhere along the line you've stepped on the toes of one who exerts influence over your career. Today that person is in a position to retaliate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You could be out of character today. You may look for the worst in others, rather than for their better qualities. It just isn't your style.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)

Don't permit yourself to be drawn into associations with those whose ideals and morals aren't up to your standards. This could land you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Fortunately you're a rugged individualist. This will stand you in good stead today. Nobody will be behind you to give you a boost.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Co-workers must be treated with extreme tact today, particularly one you've had trouble with before. Another storm may be brewing.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Make it a habit today not to stick your nose into situations where you're neither involved or invited. You could be rebuffed or rebuked.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Avoid discussing what already is a sticky issue with your unit today. What was just simmering could turn into a real pot-boller.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) As long as you're acting on your own volition, you'll be easy to get along with today. If you're ordered to do something, you'll become very balky.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Protect the tools of your trade and possessions today. An ounce of prevention could save you from the trauma of being ripped off.

CAUTION

Bare feet may be delightful on the beach but don't forget to protect them with suntan oil. The bottoms of your feet can burn as well as the tops if you're going to stretch out for any length of time.

Tennis Blindness

I take my marriage vows seriously. All that jazz about better or worse, richer or poorer, sickness and health. I've handled it all — until my husband developed blind spots on the tennis court.

His first attack hit about seven months ago. I hit a ball well inside the serving court when I heard him yell, "LONG!"

I placed my second serve which I watched clearly land on the line and he yelled, "WIDE!"

Naturally, I didn't want to upset him, so I waited until the end of the set (which he won) and led him off the court. "Be careful, dear," I advised gently, "there are two steps in front of you at 12 o'clock; then there are exactly 66 steps to the car with only one curb in between and I'll tell you about them."

"I am not blind," he said irritably, shaking his arm loose from mine.

"Of course you're not," I condescended. But I was worried.

However, at home, his super vision returned. He noted a phone was off the hook just by looking through a wall.

Currently, predicted, his son was wearing his underwear right through a pair of shorts, and took me to task for the dust on top of our seven-foot refrigerator.

That weekend, when we returned to the court for a rematch, his vision once again failed him. Lobs that landed on the line were called "out," or "in," depending on whose lobs they were. If I had so much as a shewalace that went over the serving line, he would call, "FOOT FAULT!"

A girlfriend of mine said her husband suffered from the same malady. "It's tennis elbow of the eye," she said.

"Are you serious?" I giggled. "It's not funny," she said. "It's painful as all get out. Comes from missing too many shots that are in."

"Surely we can't be talking about the same thing."

"Maybe not," she said. "Does your husband sometime call it out before you even serve the ball? (I nodded.) Does he sometimes win an entire set without stepping a foot on the court? (Again I nodded.) Does his vision return when he is in the pro-shop? (Again I nodded.) There was a cure for it last year," she said. "Of course, I don't know what they call it this year."

"What did they call the cure last year?"

"Divorce."

In rubber bridge he retains that right until he or his partner has played to the current trick, in duplicate he must not have turned his card to the previous trick.

Fresh Ideas

With Makeup

Instead of dabbing on blusher and rubbing it in, give your skin a break and pat it on instead. To remove the shine but not the glow from your makeup and blusher, try brushing a translucent powder over all as a final step.

At night, try more than one color in eye makeup for emphasis. Winter lip color this year runs to the raspberry, wine and deep plum shades.

TRIAL RUN

Before a special occasion, try your makeup out, especially if it's new. Better to know beforehand whether it works.

EX-FIRST LADY ANALYZES DEFEAT Ford-Nixon Link Called A Costly One

NEW YORK (AP) — Gerald Ford's association with Richard Nixon made him "automatically a bad guy" and cost him the presidency last November, believes former First Lady Betty Ford.

"Many people who definitely were for Jerry could not bring themselves to vote for him because he pardoned Nixon," Mrs. Ford is quoted as saying in the November issue of McCall's magazine.

But Mrs. Ford says she says she doesn't think the pardon was a mistake.

"I don't don't think they realized what a sick man Nixon was ... physically sick, which tended to affect ... decisions."

Mrs. Ford said the media was more critical of her husband than it is of President Carter, but she said she is not resentful of that.

"Jerry was a Republican, and he was associated with Nixon — and anyone associated with Nixon was automatically a 'bad guy.'"

She said Rosalynn Carter, the current first lady, "is doing a very good job," especially in view of the fact that "she's had her hands full to a great extent with all that family."

Mrs. Ford, 59, said she noted one striking difference between herself and Mrs. Carter when the women first met several years ago. "She signed her name 'Mrs. Jimmy Carter,' whereas I always signed, 'Betty Ford' ... Of course, that was such a well-planned campaign — four years in the making — and I'm sure she used 'Mrs. Jimmy Carter' to promote her husband, and I think that was wonderful."

In the White House, Mrs. Ford said, Mrs. Carter is less outspoken than Mrs. Ford was, and

"She probably keeps her husband out of a lot of trouble, which I didn't."

Mrs. Ford, who underwent a radical mastectomy while she was in the White House, said she is "feeling well" except for occasional bouts with arthritis and a pinched nerve. The cancer, she said, is cured.

She currently is working on an autobiography and is preparing for several NBC-TV network appearances. She said her daughter, Susan, has quit school for a career in free-lance photography.

Son Jack works for Outside magazine and, although he has denied interest in a political career, Mrs. Ford said she believes he'll eventually run for the Congress.

The Fords' only married son, Mike, and his wife, Gayle, are living in Pittsburgh following his graduation from a Massachusetts seminary.

Son Steve planned a movie career until it was suggested he get some experience in a Broadway show — a 1950s-spoof musical "Grease."

"That ended his career in the movies," Mrs. Ford said. "He is now working for a veterinarian and teaching riding in Newport, Calif."

Mrs. Ford said her husband made the transition easily from president to private citizen. "He went from Air Force One to a golf tournament, and he's been busy ever since."

Ford has not ruled out running for presidency in 1980, but Mrs. Ford has made no secret of the fact that she'd rather her husband remain retired from active political life when the Fords move into their $800,000 "dream house" in Palm Springs, Calif., next spring.

Diamond Dealer Hunt Reopens Graves In P.R.

By RICHARD PIENCIAK
Associated Press Writer
SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — An admittedly bewildered police department, which has already dug up four bodies without finding the right one, said it might exhume four more corpses today in an attempt to find the body of New York diamond dealer Abraham Shafizadeh.

Col. Hector Lugo, director of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation, said there were as many as four bodies — all identified before burial — that could be the one police are looking for.

Meanwhile, authorities here today awaited the results of a check of a fingerprint taken from a badly burned body believed to be Shafizadeh's.

One body in particular is thought to have been confused with Shafizadeh's since it apparently was taken to the San Juan municipal cemetery in the same van as the one believed to be Shafizadeh's.

No further explanation was given as to why police wanted to exhume the other three bodies.

Lugo said that since the bodies were buried with names, the families involved would have to be told of the possible mixup and then would have to approve the exhumations.

If the missing body is ever found and identified as that of Shafizadeh, he would be the third stateside diamond dealer — two from New York and one from Chicago — killed in Puerto Rico since 1974. Authorities in New York are investigating several murders and robberies in the Manhattan diamond district.

Authorities began the series of exhumations Friday night, expecting to find the corpse that was first found along the road near the rural town of Ciales on July 29 and believed to be Shafizadeh's.

From photographs, the missing dealer's brother, Dr.

Faruk Shafizadeh-Hakimi of Chicago, has tentatively identified that body as his brother's.

Authorities exhumed the body so dental records could be compared for positive identification.

On Saturday, after it was revealed the exhumed body was the wrong one, three more were dug up. Then local bickering started with Puerto Rico's Justice Department — under orders from the governor's office — eventually stepping in to begin an investigation of the body's disappearance.

Cemetery superintendent Luis Lebron said, "We don't look at the bodies; we only bury them."

Shafizadeh-Hakimi, a research engineer, arrived on this Caribbean island last Thursday, saying he was "very, very upset." He vowed to remain here until the mystery was solved.

Oops, The Bidding's Off

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The scheduled opening round of bidding for $17 million in road construction contracts has been cancelled by the Department of State Highways and Transportation. The department said it can't take any bids until it finds out how much money it has to spend. Its appropriation for the 1977-78 fiscal year is under debate in the legislature. The bids, scheduled to be taken next Wednesday, affect 17 construction projects costing an estimated $17 million. "We regret very much having to make this decision, but without an approved appropriation act to support our operations in the fiscal year that began Oct. 1, we have no choice in the matter," said Charles Uray, the department's chief deputy director.

This Church Pro-Business

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Members of Good Shepherd Baptist Church believe in mixing business with religion, and they plan a string of projects like their service station to stem the decay in their biracial neighborhood.

"We have an evangelistic ministry," said Dr. Harold Pinkston Sr., pastor of the church whose 350-member congregation owns the Good Shepherd Gulf Station next door and two blocks of frontage on a busy Columbus thoroughfare. "We feel the church should be the spiritual center of the community and a place people can look to for guidance," the minister said.

The service station, open daily except Sunday, was originally purchased for more parking space, but the church decided to run it, with a church trustee as manager. "We trust the station will generate community interest and participation and funds which will enhance the total church ministry itself," Pinkston said.

As pastor, Pinkston is president of Good Shepherd Investments and Enterprises Corp., the legal owner of property the pastor values at more than $500,000 and the business he says is worth a quarter of a million dollars, all tax-free.

"We eventually intend to turn the whole area into a multi-purpose block called the Good Shepherd Block," he said. "Underground, there may be banquet facilities, youth activities such as a swimming pool, basketball courts and an indoor track. On the ground level, there will be business enterprises of every sort. And above ground, there will be high-rise efficiency apartments for the aged."

He said the facilities would be open to use by non-members.

The church, located in a transitional area that is half black and half white, was organized 20 months ago by Pinkston and 16 others meeting in his living room. They located the church building, which had been occupied by Presbyterians, and decided to buy.

"In seven days, our church members put $104,000 in cash on the altar to purchase the building," the minister said. Professionals, including accountants, doctors and attorneys, are members of Good Shepherd's biracial congregation, he said. "We also have what we call our 'soul members,' who are not as affluent as the others," Pinkston said. "But the spirit of mutual giving and sharing catches on."

Hospital Cost Limit Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration wants quick congressional action to control hospital costs, and warns that each day's delay is expensive to taxpayers.

The Carter legislation, proposed in April, would place a 9 per cent annual ceiling on hospital fee increases.

Since then, at least four congressional committees have considered the problem and three are still at work.

"To delay for even four months, until next February, would impose $2.38 billion in additional hospital bills on the American people — the equivalent of almost $14 for every adult and child in the nation," said Joseph A. Califano Jr., secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

Carter said his plan would save the government, health insurance companies and consumers about $2 billion in the fiscal year that began Oct. 1.

New hospitals, federal hospitals and hospitals that operate on a Health Maintenance Organization concept would be exempt from the ceiling.

The latest proposal, approved by a House health subcommittee headed by Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., went to the House Commerce Committee.

Rogers' bill would permit hospital revenues to go up 50 per cent more than the inflation rate, which probably would mean a 9 per cent ceiling the first year.

It would exempt psychiatric institutions and the following hospitals: those less than three years old, those receiving 75 per cent of their revenue from HMOs, and those in small towns with less than 4,000 admissions a year.

Hospital construction would be limited to $2.5 billion a year nationwide, with some exemptions.

Another bill, which has cleared the Senate Human Resources Committee, would keep Carter's 8 per cent annual limit on hospital fee increases. But there would also be a two-year moratorium on hospital building or expansion, except where statewide plans provide for such development.

That bill, sponsored by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., must face Senate Finance Committee action. Califano urged the finance panel and the House Ways and Means health subcommittee, also working on the problem, to act quickly.

LEAA Draws Fire For Planned Cutback In Crime Victim Survey

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressmen are criticizing the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration for proposing a cutback in its survey of crime victims.

The LEAA conducts regular polls of about 85,000 households, during which families are asked if they have been victims of burglary, rape, robbery or similar crimes.

Without notifying Congress, acting LEAA Administrator James Gregg proposed saving $4.5 million by suspending the polling during the first nine months of next year. The agency's budget has been cut $250 million since 1973.

Gregg also said the suspension would give the agency time to correct problems in the polling methods.

"Congress likes to be informed," said Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee. "I must say I think it's unfortunate that these decisions were taken without consultation."

Rep. James Scheuer, D-N.Y., chairman of a subcommittee on scientific planning, complained to Deputy Atty. Gen. Peter Flaherty. A Flaherty aide said his boss will make the final decision on the survey's future. Scheuer said the surveys have added to knowledge about crime.

"To discontinue them now would seriously erode the credibility of future victimization surveys since the gap in data collection will inevitably lead to imprecise extrapolations," he commented.

Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., sought an explanation of the policy from Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell. When he did not get one, he summoned Gregg to a public hearing before the House Judiciary subcommittee on crime. Conyers is the committee chairman.

In a recent interview after the hearing, Gregg said, "Frankly, we never thought there would be such interest in it. We looked on it as a technical change to correct some of the problems."

He said LEAA officials had no intention of ending the surveys.

Texas Blackout Probed

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A power outage that blacked out parts of the city for up to three hours was blamed by utility officials on a snapped static line and failure of a backup generator for some "freak reason."

Power went out at about 7:10 p.m. Sunday after the static line, designed to ground transmission lines from lightning, snapped for an unknown reason. City Power Service officials said. The snapped line tangled with major transmission lines from the Calaveras Lake power station 14 miles south of the city, short-circuiting them.

CPS general manager J.K. Spruce said overloaded generators in other parts of the utility's grid system automatically kicked off, but a backup generator that is inspected daily failed to start.

Partial service to the city's 800,000 residents was restored about 1½ hours after the blackout, and full service, with power borrowed from other Texas power sources, was restored by 11 p.m.

Bomb Protesters Use Carter Church

By ROBERT PARRY
A Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Four demonstrators who disrupted President Carter's church service by denouncing the neutron bomb are free on personal recognizance while the fifth is continuing his protest in jail.

The three men and two women, ejected from the First Baptist Church by ushers Sunday morning, were charged with "disturbing a religious congregation."

A sixth person who took part in the reading was not arrested. Leaving the church, the President stopped briefly when another protester shouted for him to "veto the neutron bomb." Unruffled, Carter turned, asked, "What's that?" and then said, "They're fine young people."

Later, after returning to the White House, he told reporters: "I agree with their (the demonstrators') objective in eliminating nuclear weapons. (But) I think they were mistaken in trying to disrupt the church services."

"The Secret Service didn't feel I was in danger, and neither did I."

The neutron bomb is a high-radiation nuclear weapon designed to kill people while leaving buildings relatively intact. Carter is considering deployment of the weapon as a deterrent against a possible Warsaw Pact invasion of Western Europe.

Critics of the neutron bomb say it is inhumane and would increase the chances of a nuclear confrontation. Carter aides have said the President will decide before the end of the year whether to produce and deploy it.

Carter, his wife Rosalynn, 8-year-old daughter Amy and a group of friends from Georgia, including Mrs. Carter's former Bible teacher, attended services at the First Baptist Church.

The President and his wife attended adult Bible class in the back balcony, then took their usual seats in the sixth pew on the right side of the 175-year-old stone-and-block church.

As Pastor Charles Trentham stepped to the pulpit to begin his sermon, the first of the demonstrators, dressed in slacks and a brown sweater, stood up and began to read the anti-bomb statement.

"Sisters and brothers," he said, "we address you lovingly. Did not Jesus mean what He said when He taught us to love our enemies? And did He not love what He said?"

"Christians cannot love their enemies and still threaten them with nuclear death..."

At that point, an usher grabbed the protester, put his hand over the man's mouth, pulled him out of the pew and led him to the door.

A second protester, Elizabeth McAllister, a former Roman Catholic nun who married an antiwar priest Philip Berrigan, stood in another pew across the aisle and continued the reading.

Mrs. McAllister was convicted in 1972 for smuggling mail to Berrigan while he was in prison. The government dropped more serious charges in the so-called "Harrisburg Seven" trial,

TRIM FAT, SLUGGISHNESS Carter Orders Defense Revamp

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter has ordered a major attack on Defense Department command and management problems which he said "have resisted change for many years."

In a recent memorandum to Defense Secretary Harold Brown, the President called for a "searching organizational review" and told Brown that "often, our own personal involvement will be needed" to get results.

Carter's order sets in motion still another in a series of efforts dating back about 30 years to make the giant, complex and often sluggish defense establishment function more effectively and economically in peace and war.

The most recent major attempt in that direction was made by the Nixon administration. It created a "blue ribbon defense panel" which recommended in 1970 a drastic overhaul of the defense leadership structure, both military and civilian.

But few of its fundamental proposals were adopted, apparently because the Nixon administration, feared friction with the military and with elements in Congress while the Vietnam War was in progress.

In outlining key issues for study now, the White House "reorganization project staff" warned Carter he would face resistance from the military services and intense political pressures resulting from base closures and various consolidations.

The responsiveness — or the lack of it in crises — has been a major concern since the Vietnam War, and particularly since the North Korean seizure of the U.S. spy ship Pueblo in 1968 disclosed a virtual paralysis in the responses of military and civilian authorities.

"Serious questions persist about the effectiveness of the command structure for the conduct of war, for peacetime activities and for crisis management," said Carter's reorganization staff in a paper the President forwarded to Brown.

Among other things, the staff voiced concern about the capability of the Joint Chiefs of Staff "to provide guidance (to the President and the secretary of defense), to review contingency plans and to resolve differences between commands regarding forces."

Without going into detail, the paper said "several conflicts that were not easily resolved have occurred between the Readiness Command and other unified commanders over matters of contingency planning and the conduct of operations."

Carter's staff said a review should propose measures aimed at "simplifying the decision-making process" and reducing some military staffs with corresponding cuts in costs.

The White House staff also focused attention on the perennial problem of trimming down and simplifying the management structure, principally organized around the secretary of defense and his top civilian assistants.

The memorandum said that basic questions yet to be resolved include overlapping and duplication in staffs and, in effect, the growth in various bureaucratic practices which blur responsibility.

Brown has made some limited changes at the very top of the civilian organization in the Pentagon, but Carter obviously wants him to go further.

Another major area of concern to Carter involves management of about $36 billion, or about one-third of the Defense budget, in the area of what are called "support services." These include supply, maintenance, training, health care and base operations.

"There is much evidence that these functions are more expensive and less effective than they might be," Carter's staff told him.

The thrust of the reorganization staff's memo on this point appears aimed at the separate supply, training, medical and recruitment organizations maintained by the individual services. The staff apparently believes many of these should be consolidated.

"Each military service in the defense structure will work to protect its base of support activities," the staff memorandum said.

"The services' concern will be that reorganization of functions will impair readiness..."

"Any changes in medical health care delivery will arouse great concern and may meet resistance from retirees and dependents."

President Will Talk With Poor

DETROIT (AP) — As part of his effort to show concern about urban problems, President Carter will spend 90 minutes talking with poor people on a visit to Detroit Friday.

The president will act as the opening panelist at a regional meeting of some 400 representatives of the urban and rural poor. The two-day meeting is being sponsored by the Community Services Administration, the former Office of Economic Opportunity.

Carter's visit also is expected to give a political boost to Mayor Coleman Young, one of Carter's earliest supporters, who is up for re-election Nov. 8.

According to a spokeswoman for the group, Carter will hold an hour-long discussion with 12 of the representatives, then field questions from the floor for the next half-hour.

"We have to decide what kind of services we are going to provide the poor for the next three years," said Maria Tarana. "Instead of the standard practice of going out and hiring consultants, we are letting the people themselves tell us what they want."

The Detroit meeting, to be held in the Veterans Memorial Building, is expected to draw representatives of black, white, Hispanic, old, young, urban and rural groups from Michigan, Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin and Minnesota, according to Miss Tarana.

The participants were selected by the Chicago regional office after 1,000 letters were

House Cluttered With Dead Animals
ALAMEDA, Calif. (AP) — A 90-year-old woman has been discovered living in a house cluttered with 66 dead cats and two dead dogs — most of which had died nearly two years ago.
Police entered the home Saturday after being tipped by parents of children who noticed two dead cats in the backyard of the house, located in this east San Francisco Bay community. The woman and one cat were the only living things found, police said.
"And the live one promptly split," said police Sgt. Al Jayne.
He said a dog was lying on a two-year-old newspaper and all the animals "had been dead for a long time." Jayne said most of the animals were in a single room, apparently the victims of neglect.
"It's our impression they had been locked into a room and had just been forgotten about," he said. The woman was placed in a county hospital for psychiatric evaluation, Jayne said.
He said she had a month-old, untreated foot injury and responded to investigators' questions with vague "ramblings. She didn't even understand why we were there or what we were doing," Jayne said. "We had to get a neighbor to coax her out."

Mini-Vans Are Coming

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. will introduce the auto industry's first mini-van in the 1980s, reports the Metalworking News edition of the American Metal Market. The vans will be shorter and lighter than any passenger, recreational or commercial van produced in the U.S., says the latest issue of the business newspaper. GM refused to comment on the report. Metalworking News says three GM plants will assemble the vans. The mini-vans will have front-wheel drive transmissions. Metalworking News reported unusual design features include a single door on the driver's side and two separate doors on the passenger's side.

League Withdraws Sponsorship

DETROIT (AP) — The League of Women Voters has withdrawn its sponsorship of a televised debate between incumbent Mayor Coleman Young and his chief opponent in next month's election, City Councilman Ernest Browne Jr. The league pulled out because of a disagreement with two of the three television stations which will carry the Oct. 27 debate, said Mrs. Carol Frisch, league president. At issue is a proposal by WJBK-TV and WXYZ-TV that a panel of television anchor persons question the candidates, Mrs. Frisch said. The original agreement, reached between the league, the two stations and WWJ-TV Sept. 29, called for the panel to be representative of the city's radio and print media as well, Mrs. Frisch said. Only WWJ-TV agreed to honor the original agreement she said, with the other two stations deciding the debate was a "TV event" in which only television stations should participate.

Escapace Indicted

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A federal grand jury has indicted an Upper Peninsula prison camp escapee on charges of kidnapping a woman and stealing her car. Douglas Henry, 23, of Lansing, remained in the Kent County Jail in lieu of $100,000 bond pending arraignment on the indictments. He originally waived grand jury consideration of his case but changed his mind after being bound over for trial on a kidnapping count. Henry was charged with kidnapping Evelyn VanFassel, 38, of Marquette, from her cottage Aug. 25. Her abduction in the family car occurred three days after Henry escaped from a prison camp near Marquette. Henry was serving two sentences for burglary.

PBB Study Includes Iowa

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan has signed a contract with the University of Iowa to set up a control group of farm families in that state as part of Michigan's study of the effects of PBB on human health. The group of Iowa farmers — not exposed to the toxic fire-retardant chemical polybrominated biphenyl — will be used to compare with people in Michigan who were exposed to PBB. "If we find a difference between the two groups of people, then we must determine whether or not PBB caused the difference," said Arthur Bloomer, chief of the Michigan Health Department's Division of Environmental Epidemiology. The state has launched a long-term study into the possible effects of PBB on the health of people exposed to the chemical. A New York medical team tested 1,028 farm family members who were heavily exposed to PBB, and found reduced resistance to disease among them. The state is also beginning a new study to determine the effect of PBB, if any, on Michigan's general population.

Keeping Track Of Illness

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A measure establishing an information reporting system for critical health problems has been introduced in the state legislature by Rep. Connie Binsfeld, R-Maple City. The bill would allow the state Public Health Department to gather information on emergency or critical health problems from across the state. "As it stands right now, the health department often has no data on many diseases until persons have died," Mrs. Binsfeld said. The reporting system would enable the department to identify who is stricken by illness, and classify them as to age group, sex and geographic location. Such information systems have been helpful in the past in controlling smallpox and rubella, she said. The system could be expanded to include other diseases, such as cancer, she added.

Drug Indictments Name Four

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Federal grand jury indictments have been issued against four persons accused of being part of an international marijuana smuggling ring. When the four were arrested earlier this month in St. Joseph and Kalamazoo counties, authorities confiscated 5,000 pounds of marijuana which police claimed was worth $1.25 million. A fifth person was arrested at Clearwater, Fla., as part of the same case. Kalamazoo police said the ring smuggled South American marijuana into Clearwater before bringing it to the Kalamazoo area for distribution. Those indicted Friday were William Hatfield, 53, of Constantine; Beth Ann Neff, 26, of Minden; Michael Neff, 30, of Anchorage, Alaska; and Fred Meyerhoffer, 31, of St. Petersburg, Fla. Bonds ranging from $5,000 to $100,000 were continued. All four were charged with possessing controlled substances with intent to deliver. Meyerhoffer and Michael Neff also were charged with conspiracy.

Insulate Instead, He Says

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A proposal by Gov. William Milliken to fund a winter heating assistance program with $32 million in federal funds is an unwise use of the money, a state lawmaker says. Rep. Dan Angel, R-Battle Creek, says the money should be used to help low income families insulate their homes instead of being used to pay increasingly higher home heating bills. "The same program will cost more than $40 million by next winter, and in order to continue it we will have to ask the taxpayers to support it out of the state general fund," Angel said. "It would be much better to use those funds to continue the home winterization program." Michigan received the federal funds following settlement of a dispute over federal welfare reimbursement funds for the state.

Mayor Accused Of Lying

DETROIT (AP) — Mayoral contender Ernest Browne has accused incumbent Mayor Coleman Young of lying about the use of Detroit police officers for one of Young's television campaign commercials. Young said the four Detroit police officers and one sergeant who appeared in the commercial actually were volunteers and were not appearing on city-paid time. But Browne said a police assignment roster shows that all four officers and the sergeant were ordered away from regular duties by their superiors to report to a police mini-station, where the commercial was to be filmed. Browne demanded Sunday that Young reimburse the city for the amount of money paid the officers while they were kept away from their regular duties. The mayor had no immediate comment.

Glenn Okays Tax Hike

GLENN — Voters in the Glenn K-8 school district here Saturday approved a one-mill property tax increase to help finance school operations for the 1977-78 school year. School officials said the one-mill hike passed by an unofficial vote of 57-14, with three spoiled ballots.

DOWAGIAC WALK-A-THON: More than $3,000 was raised for the Michigan Long Association Saturday by some 100 Dowagiac area students who participated in 18-mile walk-a-thon along roads north of the city. The first stage of walk, shown above, was led by 52-ton tank from Headquarters Co., 246th Armored Battalion, Michigan National Guard, which is located at Dowagiac Armory. More than 35 guardsmen provided

Youths On Work Detail Escape

DETROIT (AP) — Five youths from a correctional home were being sought by police today after they escaped while on a work detail at the Detroit home of their shop instructor.

Investigators said the teenagers had been brought to Detroit from the W.J. Maxey Boys Training School at Whitmore Lake, north of Ann Arbor, to help paint the home of Sammy Williamson, 39, the instructor.

Williamson told police he left the boys at 6 p.m., and when he returned about 30 minutes later, they were gone. Police said Williamson reported the youths missing at 8 p.m.

A spokesman for the state-run correction center said Williamson had permission to take the boys to his home in Detroit. He said the center often allows inmates to leave the grounds for work details, for which they are paid.

The spokesman said all five youths would have been eligible to leave the center in a few weeks.

Missing were Sam Silas, 16, Detroit, charged with assault and battery of a police officer and breaking and entering; Anino Fleming, 16, Detroit, truancy and breaking and entering; Donald Russell, 16, Kalamazoo, breaking and entering; Edward Melvin, 18, Grand Rapids, larceny; and Steve Stockard, 17, Monroe, car theft and breaking and entering.

Young Girls Among State Traffic Victims

By ASSOCIATED PRESS Three young girls were among at least 10 people killed in traffic accidents around Michigan over the weekend, state police reported.

Among the victims was Linda Huber, 14, of Memphis, who was killed when a car driven by her brother ran out of control, struck a tree and rolled over in St. Clair County's Riley Township Sunday.

The victim's twin sister, Barbara, and the brother, Martin

Huber, 17, were injured. Michelle Lynn Harvey, 8, of Stanton was killed late Saturday when a car in which she was a passenger was involved in a broadside crash in Montcalm County.

A two-month-old Detroit girl, Kimberly Dickerson, died late Saturday as the result of an accident on Interstate 75 in Saginaw County. She was thrown from a car which ran off the highway, troopers said.

Two Flee Fire In Coloma

COLOMA — An apparent furnace malfunction caused a fire early Sunday at a house at 3000 Park Rd., according to Coloma firemen.

Wayne Kreitzer, assistant fire chief, reported the blaze started adjacent to the furnace with fire damage to the floor between the basement and first floor.

Two occupants of house, Sue Nelson and Karen Callahan, both 18, escaped from the house unharmed, firemen said. House is owned by Richard Nelson, St. Joseph. The house sustained extensive smoke damage, firemen said, but no damage estimate was reported.

Pedestrian Seriously Injured

Isaiah McGowan, 27, of 1772 Council Drive, Benton township, was injured about 10:40 p.m. Saturday, when struck by an auto while walking across South Crystal Avenue, near Council Drive, according to township police.

McGowan was reported in "serious" condition this morning at Mercy Hospital with multiple fractures.

Benton Township Patrolman Jimmie Coburn said an unidentified woman accompanying McGowan reported that he is blind.

Coburn and Patrolman Scott Long said the driver, Gregory L. Brady, 26, Box 138, Route 3, Coloma, reported traveling north on Crystal when he suddenly saw a man near the center of the road and walking toward the east side. The officers said Brady reported braking the auto, but was unable to avoid the accident.

No tickets were issued, and the accident remained under investigation, the officers said.

Clearer Economic Path Asked

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — Leading businessmen, expressing confusion over President Carter's economic program, are seeking a clear statement on economic policy from the White House.

"Business is looking for an economic strategy, articulated in a way we can understand it," Reginald Jones, chairman of General Electric Co., said over the weekend at the semiannual meeting of the 120-member Business Council, composed of 120 corporation chairmen.

Irving S. Shapiro, chairman of the Du Pont Co., said, "Markets can handle good and bad news but not uncertainty. Even if we don't agree with the program, we'll know where we're going."

Administration officials contend that uncertainty is inevitable because of the President's detailed programs on energy, welfare and other issues.

Robert Strauss, Carter's special trade representative, said, "There is an awful lot on the front burner. When you seek progress, you must inevitably create some uncertainty."

PIGEON RIVER OIL DRILLING

Judge Taking Trial To Woods

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA, Mich. (AP) — The court battle over expanded oil drilling in Pigeon River Country State Forest moves into the heart of the woods today as a judge tours the rugged northern Lower Michigan area.

Trailled by attorneys, reporters and state natural resources agents, Judge Thomas Brown of Ingham County Circuit Court is to get a first-hand look at what's involved in the dispute. He'll hike through portions of the forest.

If opponents of drilling have their way, Brown will get an inspiring view of the large swamps, quiet streams, forested ridges and woodland clearings which environmentalists hope to protect as the most remote "big wild" in the Lower Peninsula.

The rugged terrain, crossed only by two gravel roads and a series of trails, harbors a variety of wildlife, including the only wild elk herd east of the Mississippi. Sports enthusiasts use it for fishing, hunting, hiking, camping, nature observation, berry picking and cross-country skiing.

Brown — himself an outdoorsman who has hunted in Pigeon River — arranged the tour to begin at a courthouse on the edge of the forest. It was expected to take most of the day.

He said it would be up to attorneys for environmentalists, the state and oil companies to determine what he looked at.

"The idea is to give the court an idea of what the area looks like — a picture is worth a thousand words. Anytime you can view the matter under controversy, it's helpful," he added.

Roger Conner, attorney for the West Michigan Environmental Action Council, which filed the suit, said he has several places he wants Brown to see.

"The main thing I want is for the judge to have something he can relate to when he hears people describe various parts of the forest," he said.

Brown, 45, said his family has vacationed near the forest since 1940. "I got lost in Pigeon River one time," he recalled. "I kept going in a circle and coming back to the same dumb four corners."

Court arguments return to Mason on Tuesday as environmentalists begin calling witnesses to testify on how the state sold drilling leases in the forest in 1968. They contend state officials did not properly review the leases before issuing them.

Opponents of the gas and oil drilling filed suit to block further exploration in the semi-wilderness area in Cheboygan, Montmorency and Oshtemo counties. About six wells are operating in the area now.

Natural Resources Director Howard Tanner has approved 10 permits to drill in the forest, but drilling has been delayed until December under a state moratorium during the elk mating season.

The permits were approved under a 1976 agreement between the state and three oil companies. Shell Oil Co. could drill for all three firms in the southern third of the 96,000-acre forest under tight restrictions to protect the ecology of the woods.

But environmentalists argue that any new drilling will damage the forest, and the state had the obligation of considering other drilling sites before approving development in Pigeon River.

VETERINARIANS TRADE ROLES: Dr. George Freier, left, and Dr. John Sharon have traded roles in sale of Freier Animal Hospital and Hawthorne Animal Clinic. Sharon, an employee of Freier's nine years, became Freier's boss recently when he purchased both facilities from Freier who said he intends to remain on staff several more years. ## Veterinarian Sells Hospital And Clinic

Dr. George G. Freier has sold the Freier Animal Hospital in Fairplain and the Hawthorne Animal Clinic in St. Joseph, but the well-known Twin Cities veterinarian will remain on the staff of both facilities.

The facilities were sold to Dr. John Sharon, a veterinarian who has worked under Freier for the past nine years. The transaction was completed in January, but was only recently announced.

Freier, 57, has owned the practice since 1945. Freier said word of the sale is getting around now, and people are asking him how he likes retirement. He said he is always having to explain that even though he has sold the practice, he intends to remain on the staff.

"I'm just turning the administration over to Dr. Sharon," Freier said. "I can actually practice more veterinary medicine now than I used to. Dr. Sharon wanted the headaches so I let him have them."

Sharon said he did not announce the sale in January because he did not want people to think Freier was leaving. Freier said he primarily works at the Hawthorne Clinic, 111 Hawthorne Ave.

In addition to Sharon, two other veterinarians work at the animal hospital at 1288 Colfax Ave. They are Dr. Sharon Hosted and Dr. David Carron.

All four received their DVM degrees from Michigan State University, Sharon said. Sharon is a native of Dearborn but has lived in the Twin Cities for the past nine years. He and his wife Janet and two children live at 2671 Tanbark Trail, St. Joseph.

Freier is a life-long resident of the area and a graduate of Benton Harbor High School. He graduated from MSU in 1943.

Two years later he purchased an animal hospital and practice from Dr. E.L. Krieger who was retiring from a veterinary practice he began in 1900.

Freier has served on the State Board of Veterinary Examiners and he is a director of the Humane Society of Southwestern Michigan. He and his wife, Patricia, live at 3280 West Valley View Drive, St. Joseph.

Sharon is treasurer of the Sargent Nature Center and has been active in fund-raising campaigns for the center which is located northeast of Benton Harbor.

Youth Escapes Death In Cave

CUMBERLAND, Md. (AP) — Spelunkers call Twigg's Cave dangerous. The "mud cave" nearly swallowed two explorers two years ago and now a young spelunker is in the hospital after escaping the soft, deep recesses of the challenging cave.

James Wright Jr., 19, of Cumberland was brought out Sunday, nearly two days after being caught in a narrow passage inside the cave, 15 miles east of this western Maryland town.

Twigg's Cave is where Robert and Anita Mongold were trapped for 13 days two years ago. The cave has been charted, but experts consider it dangerous because of its narrow passage.

Crosby Funeral Tuesday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A simple, low-key funeral is planned for Bing Crosby on Tuesday, a family spokesman says.

Crosby's body was to arrive in Los Angeles tonight, accompanied by his son Harry, 18, on a flight from Spain. Crosby died of a heart attack on Friday in Madrid, after playing a round of golf. He had listed his age as 73, although baptismal records list the crooner as 74.

The Roman Catholic service will be held at St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church in Brentwood. Crosby, a devout Catholic, will be buried in a family plot at Holy Cross Cemetery near his parents and first wife, Dixie Lee, who died of cancer in 1982.

Crosby's second wife, Kathryn, told newsmen outside their home in the San Francisco suburb of Hillsborough that the service would be a low Mass.

"He wanted only the children and myself," she said, "but I think there are those who worshipped him for 40 years who have a right to be there."

Maury Foldare, Crosby's press agent, said several of Crosby's office employees would

Heating Aid Ripoff Aired

DETROIT (AP) — The state of Michigan is tightening up procedures to cut out fraudulent activity in a program designed to help low-income people over age 65 pay their heating bills.

The crackdown comes in the aftermath of a story by a Detroit Free Press reporter who received $250 from the program even though he didn't qualify.

To be eligible for the program, applicants must be over age 65 and a family of four must be earning no more than $7,313.

Free Press business writer Allan Sloan, who is 32 and earns more than the state-imposed limit, said in a story for today's editions that he lied on the application sent him by the state Department of Social Services.

After processing the application, the state sent the reporter a check for $30 and sent Consumers Power Co. in Jackson $200 to apply to Sloan's account.

State officials admit they failed to catch the lies because they did not check to find out if the applicants told the truth.

The $250, which was returned, is part of Michigan's $13.3-million dollar share of a $200-million federal program to help needy people cope with last winter's unusually high fuel bills.

A senior assistant in the Bureau of Finance's Special Assistance Office in Lansing said the state probably will use Social Security and Michigan

Income Tax files to verify applications before granting people any money.

To date, the program has paid out some $7.4 million to more than 80,000 recipients in Michigan. The program is going to be extended in Michigan this winter because the state plans to use a $32 million windfall from the federal government to help subsidize home heating bills for some segments of the population.

He Blames Others For Death Try

DETROIT (AP) — A jail inmate who tried to kill himself while awaiting trial is suing county officials, charging they didn't protect him adequately from his own suicidal urges.

David Mullinaux, 26, contends in the suit that county authorities should have known about his suicidal tendencies and taken precautions to make sure he didn't hurt himself.

According to his attorney, Frank Eaman, Mullinaux was in the hospital after trying to cut his wrists when he was arrested and charged with assault in 1973.

Mullinaux could not afford bond and was being held in the Wayne County Jail awaiting trial when he tried to hang himself from his cell bars, using the gauze that doctors had placed over his slashed wrists.

The suit claims Mullinaux sustained permanent damage to his brain and internal organs, and lost his spleen and a section of his liver because of the hanging attempt.

The assault charge he had been jailed for later was dismissed.

Named as defendants in the Wayne County Circuit Court suit are the county, its board of commissioners, Sheriff William Lucas and jail administrator Frank Wilkerson.

South African Operation

Chimp Heart Patient Dies

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Benjamin Fortes died today, 82 hours after Dr. Christiaan Barnard and his surgical team put a chimpanzee's heart in the man's body to bolster his own failing heart.

Fortes, a 59-year-old accountant, was the second man to receive a chimpanzee heart transplant and the first to get one as an auxiliary or "piggyback" pump. In 1964, Dr. James Hardy of the University of Mississippi replaced a 68-year-old man's heart with a chimpanzee heart, but the patient died two hours later.

A spokesman for Groote Schuur hospital announced that Fortes died this morning but gave no details.

Barnard was not available for comment, but a statement from the hospital was expected later in the day.

Fortes had been reported in satisfactory condition Sunday. But a spokesman for the hospital said it might take two weeks to determine if his body would reject the animal heart.

In the past three years, Barnard and his cardiac team have performed 17 successful piggyback transplants, but in each case used a second human heart.

In his first attempt with an animal heart, Barnard last June grafted a baboon heart to the heart of a 26-year-old Italian woman, but she lived only four hours. The doctor said then that the heart of a baboon was too small to do the necessary work and that he would use a chimpanzee heart the next time.

For the operation Thursday he used the heart of a 10-year-old male chimp imported from the Netherlands.

Hospital sources said Barnard had planned to remove the animal heart as soon as a human heart was available.

He said he would use an animal heart when a patient's death was certain and no human heart was available. Animal hearts are intended only as a temporary measure until the patient's own heart recovers sufficiently from repair surgery or a human heart is available, he said.

President's Energy Plan Getting A Second Chance

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's energy program, passed by the House but dismantled in the Senate, gets a new chance this week as Congress begins work on a compromise energy bill.

A House-Senate conference committee, scheduled to begin its work today or Tuesday, is starting with the non-tax provisions of the energy legislation.

Consideration of energy taxes will come later.

In the Senate, legislation is being considered that would temporarily block the government from reducing Medicaid payments to states that do not comply with federal requirements for independent medical inspections of nursing homes.

And the House is debating legislation to delay the Food and Drug Administration's proposed ban on saccharin for at least 18 months.

Although the House has acted on the full Carter energy plan, the Senate has yet to approve the tax parts. This opportunity could come on Friday, when the Senate may begin debating a "tax" bill approved by its finance committee that contains no taxes.

The committee voted late last week for legislation containing billions of dollars worth of tax breaks but none of the taxes Carter proposed to help save scarce fuels by making them more expensive.

The conference committee has the job of reconciling the energy bills passed by the House and the Senate.

The panel affords a final opportunity for the administration to try to salvage the House-passed parts of the Carter plan that have been defeated in the Senate.

In other action this week, Congress is expected to send the President legislation to boost the minimum wage to $3.35 by 1981.

The saccharin ban postponement would allow time for new studies on whether the artificial sweetener poses a cancer risk to humans. It has been linked to bladder cancer in laboratory animals.

The Senate has already approved the 18-month moratorium and has voted to require that saccharin products carry cancer warnings like those on cigarette packs—a provision not contained in the bill before the House.

Public hearings begin Wednesday in the House-ethics committee's investigation of alleged South Korean influence-buying attempts in Congress.

Former South Korean intelligence and embassy officers are slated to testify through Friday.

The House will debate legislation to increase the percentage of oil imports carried by U.S.-flag tankers and a major proposed revision of the Social Security program that would boost payments by high-paid workers and their employers.

The Senate, which has a light schedule for the week, may debate legislation increasing educational benefits for veterans 8.5 per cent and take final action on legislation outlawing the use of children in pornography.

U.S. 'Don't Smoke Day' Suggested

WASHINGTON (AP) — A "National Don't Smoke Day" and an end to price supports for tobacco farmers are suggested in an internal memo at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, officials said Sunday.

HEW officials said the memo was submitted by a task force on anti-smoking initiatives and was reviewed last week by Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr.

"This was a memo submitted as an absolute vacuum-cleaner sweep of anything anybody could think of," said one HEW official, adding that the list contained about 35 ideas to discourage smoking.

The official said Califano rejected some of the ideas out-of-hand, including one suggestion that the government recommend lawsuits against cigarette companies by persons injured from smoking.

"Califano checked the 'no' box (next to the lawsuit idea) — and wrote in the margin 'a thousand times no,'" the official said. "Even the memo said this may not be a very good idea."

The HEW secretary checked the "yes" box next to the suggestion for a "National Don't Smoke Day," the official said. However, she said the secretary's interest only meant the idea was worth studying.

"Nothing has been approved," she said.

On price supports, the official said Califano wrote in the margin: "What can we do to help the small (tobacco) farmer?"

Another item on the memo suggested higher taxes for cigarettes, but the official said Califano did not indicate support or opposition to that idea.

The task force which began work on a list of anti-smoking initiatives about three months ago includes Surgeon General Julius Richmond and other HEW officials, she said.

Lansing Couple Betting Soybean May Someday Rival The Peanut

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A Lansing couple is planting seeds of hope that a lowly bean of protein will grow into a food staple whose popularity and fame rivals that of the peanut.

For Len and Irene Stuttmann, the soybean is neither lowly nor had tasting.

"There are a lot of misconceptions about soybeans," says Stuttmann, who is now partner with his wife in INARI Limited, a company which offers roasted soy nuts and raw edible soybeans for home cooking.

INARI stands for International Nutrition and Resources Incorporated, the couple's year-old firm in Danville where a ton of the food can be produced in eight hours.

"We treat it just like a peanut, and it comes out just like a peanut," says Mrs. Stuttmann, who is the operation's accountant and test kitchen supervisor.

She pegs the family operation's sales at $50,000 so far this year, but says the eight million tons a month produced at the plant is not really a large amount.

Producing 75 tons of the beans a day will yield enough to feed 200,000 persons a large handful for one day, she estimates.

"We haven't met our sales projections, but we're growing and that's the important thing," she says. "We're getting there."

The Stuttmanns say the soybean, widely used as cattle feed, has a pedigree that dates back to ancient Oriental cooking. The legume has long been a part of much Oriental cooking and recently gained support from the health food movement.

"Some people may have encountered poor tasting soybeans with a strong painty taste," Stuttmann says. "They just haven't tasted the right varieties of soybeans."

He adds that not all the 77 varieties of soybean are as palatable as others.

Michigan, whose soybean acreage is up by 10 per cent from last year, grows some of the best tasting annually, Stuttmann says.

Use of the bean wasn't new to the couple, who grew familiar with its advantages when they went overseas with Stuttmann's job as an advisor to the Indian Council of Agricultural Research.

Many food programs abroad failed because much of what was offered there was unfamiliar in both taste and appearance, Mrs. Stuttmann says. But nuts were eaten and prized in many cultures and soy nuts were a taste already accepted many places, she adds.

When the couple returned home, they brought the idea of marketing soy products abroad with them.

Stuttmann is the head of the family team, but Mrs. Stuttmann is chief of soybean cooking.

And although her methods of cooking soybeans have produced family favorite soups, and pies that taste like pumpkin, she admits that it may take a while to change the eating habits of an entire country.

New Bridge Near Saginaw

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Bids will open next summer for construction of a $55 million Zilwaukee bridge over the Saginaw River, according to a state highway official. Edward L. Upson, district engineer for the Department of State Highways and Transportation, says construction of the new span will begin in the spring of 1979, with completion expected by late 1981. The bridge will replace the existing drawbridge that carries Interstate 75 over the river at Zilwaukee. The 20-year-old drawbridge often causes massive traffic tie-ups when it is raised.

BIRTH CONTROL CLASSES

Senate Tackles Hot Issue

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The

often cautious Senate once again is the focus of a heated battle over teaching birth control in Michigan's public schools.

As always, the issue has intensified passions on both sides. The outcome may be determined by feminists' abilities to persuade lawmakers that emotional opponents do not represent a large proportion of the public and do not threaten their re-election.

The latest skirmish in the long war to repeal the ban on teaching birth control comes Tuesday in the Senate Education Committee. The panel held an opening hearing last week, producing the vehement arguments which have become standard practice on the subject.

The panel is considering a bill, already passed by the House, which would remove Michigan's ban on teaching birth control in sex education classes. Michigan has banned the subject since 1948. Louisiana is the only other state which has such a prohibition.

Legislation repealing the ban passed in 1968, but Gov. George Romney, a devout Mormon, vetoed it. Since then similar bills have passed the House or Senate but have always died either in committee or on the floor in the other chamber.

The current bill has been made as innocuous as possible to obtain as many votes as it can. It does not require schools to offer such teachings, permits parents to withhold their children from class and outlaws discussion of abortion.

It doesn't even mention the words "birth control," speaking instead of "fertility regulation." It drops the ban against teaching birth control, authorizing lessons on "reproductive health," family planning, venereal disease and human sexuality.

It also requires teachers be qualified to handle the subject, and advisory boards in each school district to review materials and methods used in the course.

None of this placated opponents of the bill, who jammed a committee room to denounce it. "We can't teach morals in school but we teach the absence of God," one protested. Another declared:

Supporters cited the arguments that young people are sexually active; venereal disease and teenage pregnancies are skyrocketing; and young people need birth control information. "Do not deny these young adults the rights to make decisions for themselves," one woman urged the committee.

A key to the outcome may be how threatened senators feel by the opponents of the bill. In the past, political fears have played a strong part in defeating the measure.

DINA: Cary was the connection

NOW SEE HERE!

By Bert Becharach

PALMISTRY experts say that a large number of tiny cross lines on the palms show great sensitivity. Handwriting Notes: When the bar of the "t" has a turned up ending, it indicates a person who sincerely wants to do things well. A good reason to go easier on foods: Doctors say that overeating tends to shorten life, and people would last longer if they always were a little hungry. Experts who have studied marital problems have found that marriage is most likely to be happy when the husband and wife are opposites rather than alike. Our Confusing Language: Size, signs, guys, lies and eyes. According to physiognomists, fingers that are close together point to a tight-fisted man who could be a real scrooge. A fellow's best approach to a Libra girl (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) is flattery.

BAR-SNOOPING at Sardin, NYC: Toss bits of chopped cucumber into your next gin and tonic for a refreshing taste. Famous Last Words: "The boss will just have to give me a big raise — there's nobody else who could do my job." Doctors say that depression is about twice as common among married people as single persons, and students are particularly hard hit.

Beauty Hint from Janet Leigh: Apply ice cubes very briefly to each eye and wipe dry before making up. The chill tones the skin and makes for an even application. Bar-Tip: Here's a different kind of "B & B" — in this case a few drops of bitters in your beer. (A good pick-me-up)

'Honeymooner' Reruns Pay Off Audrey's The Clever One

Q. You wrote about "The Honeymooners Special" in a recent column. That got me to thinking — whether Jackie Gleason, Art Carney and Audrey Meadows made fortunes because the old shows keep playing on TV. — W.P. Yama, Ariz.

A. Gleason sold his residual rights to CBS, although he would have made much more money had he not. Carney's contract only provided, for residuals for a limited period of time. But Audrey Meadows has really cleaned up. When CBS tried to buy back her rights to "The Honeymooners," she asked her lawyer-brother for his advice. Audrey's brother asked if the show was in reruns, and Audrey said it wasn't. The brother then advised her not to sell, saying he was sure the reason for the offer was that the show was going to be rerun.

Q. What can you tell us about Julie Harris? Has she retired from acting? Is she married? — C.P., Pittsburgh.

A. Julie, now 51, is in London doing a play. This spring she married for the third time. This time to Walter Carroll, a man she fell in love with 32 years ago when she appeared in a play Carroll wrote. He was married at the time and they parted, seeing each other only once in 20 years. Julie and her new husband were both married twice in the interim. She has a son, and he has six children.

Q. We went to a charity benefit recently, and there were gifts from a well-known jewelry company at every place setting. How do these charities get companies to donate presents like that? — E.T., Miami.

A. Easy if you're well-connected. Someone close to the corporation asks them to make a donation, which, of course, is tax deductible. Dina Merrill, for example, went to Faberge director Cary Grant and got from the company thousands of dollars worth of gifts for the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation. She devotes a lot of time to the organization, because her late son was a diabetic. Remember, Cary was married to Dina's cousin, Barbara Hutton, and she also worked with Grant in the movie, "Operation Petticoat."

TANTRUM TIME: A famed movie star long known for his quiet, low-key manner, has turned into a difficult person.

Friends and relatives say he is impossible to work with or live with, and one director claims, seriously, that the actor is a good candidate for a straitjacket. The director also says he had such a difficult time with the man in his last movie that he himself was hospitalized for rest and recuperation after the ordeal.

SOVIET BRAIN DRAIN: One of the world's greatest and youngest mathematical geniuses is planning to immigrate to the United States. Gregory Tchoudouovsky, 23, is now in Vienna, having finally received permission to leave Russia through the intervention of an international committee of mathematicians, dedicated to aiding Russians who want to leave their country. Tchoudouovsky has been confined to a wheelchair since he was 11 because of a neuromuscular disease. When he was 19 he achieved worldwide recognition by solving a math problem that had stood unanswered for 70 years.

Q. I really like Engelbert Humperdinck. Why hasn't he made any movies yet? — P.M., Orleans, Mass.

A. The handsome British singer has been very cautious about movie offers, despite his success in other areas. He recently moved to Hollywood and while producers aren't exactly banging down his door, some projects are perking. One is an all-star war film in which Humperdinck would play a sidekick to Sean Connery and Roger Moore. But the singer is fully aware that friend and fellow performer Tom Jones "Yuckowald" never got finished. It collapsed midway into production. Not exactly an encouraging sign to Engelbert.

Q. I'm an old Valentine fan, and wonder about that new movie with Rudolf Nureyev. Is it another of those flaky movies, where they change the names of real people to do something fictional, like they usually do? — T.P., Tacoma, Wash.

A. Interestingly, most real-life character names are preserved intact for this version of "Valentino," with people like Nijinsky and Nazimova, the actress, purring through the plot. What makes it bizarre is that clearance apparently wasn't obtained from the Frank P. Campbell Funeral Chapel in New York, because it's referred to in this film as "McBride's."

The actual funeral, with a cast of 100,000 mourners, was one of the most lurid and famous ever, and is responsible for making Campbell's famous, so it seems ironic that a fake name was used.

PARIS (AP) — The American-born Duchess of Uzès, a Standard Oil heiress and one of the leaders of the international jet set, was killed in an automobile accident on her way back from a party Sunday. The duchess, the former Margaret "Peggy" Bakeroff, would have been 55 on Tuesday. Informants said the accident happened at 7:20 a.m. at Sceaux, 20 miles south of Paris, as the duchess was being driven home from the country estate of building promoter Robert de Baillan.

The car was driving onto an expressway in a fog, hit the parapet of a bridge and overturned, the sources said. They reported the driver, another woman and a child in the car were slightly hurt.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Father Peterson says she is convinced that the drive for an independent consumer protection agency will succeed, despite recent setbacks. "I'm not going to say when," she adds, "but I certainly think in this Congress that decisions will be made."

Mrs. Peterson is President Carter's special assistant for consumer affairs. Her mission, she explained in a recent interview, is "to help get this bill (establishing a consumer agency) through Congress."

In Wake Of Porn Ruling House Moving Both Ways

By ROB WILSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A state Supreme Court ruling two weeks ago calling for a statewide obscenity standard has left House lawmakers moving both ways on the issue.

A bill introduced by Rep. Paul Rosenbaum, D-Battle Creek, is intended to take the first step toward compliance with the high court's decision.

But three Republican House members have introduced legislation designed to allow local governments to regulate pornography.

Rosenbaum's bill moved into position for final passage last week, and could clear the House this week. The measure would prohibit the distribution or display of sexually explicit materials to minors.

"We have to spoon-feed the Supreme Court," Rosenbaum said. "If they accept this bill, we will gradually feed them a pornography bill dealing with adults. If we prepared and passed an entire obscenity package, and it was rejected by the court, we wouldn't have any law at all," he said.

The Republican lawmakers contend, however, that decisions regarding pornography should be left to local communities and that a uniform, statewide standard is unworkable. They say their bill would reverse the Supreme Court's ruling and give the power back to cities.

This reasoning — that a bill may overturn a high court decision — has confused legal experts. They say it may take another Supreme Court ruling to determine whether the court will insist on state control over pornography.

The Republican measure, introduced by Reps. David Campbell of Clawson and Robert Law and Jack Kirsay of Livonia, probably will be debated in committee this week. Like Rosenbaum's bill, it faces an uncertain future. Pornography, like abortion and marijuana, often is argued as much on emotion as on logic.

If lawmakers enact a weak obscenity law, they risk alienating some voters in their constituencies who want tough — and local — controls over smut.

The House also is expected to debate a massive, three-bill package designed to reform the state's complex probate code. The 300-page package has cleared the House Judiciary Committee after more than two years of work, and will be explained to the House for the first time this week.

The major goals of the package are to reduce the cost and complexity of the current probate system, and to allow estates to be settled more quickly.

In the words of its main advocate, Rep. Monte Gerald, D-Madison Heights, the bills "must cut red tape, but also provide adequate safeguards."

The package provides for an "independent probate" system designed to reduce supervision of the court to a minimum. In many cases, estates could be settled in one day.

The Senate has no major action slated for this week, although its Education Committee takes up a controversial bill to permit the teaching of birth control in sex education classes.

FIAT PRICES UP

TURIN, Italy (AP) — Fiat SpA., the largest Italian automaker, has hiked prices of its models by an average of 3.5 per cent. It was the third increase by Fiat this year, for a total boost of 10.5 percent.

Diamond In The 'Rough'

TINTON FALLS, N.J. (AP) — A garbage collector can be a girl's best friend. Workers at the Monmouth County Reclamation Center spent more than an hour last week rummaging through garbage before they found a $5,000 diamond ring belonging to Barbara Makris of Ocean Township. Mrs. Makris called the center after she thought her ring may have been lost in a shopping bag full of trash that had been picked up by a sanitation crew. Workers sorted through an eight-foot high pile of trash that had just been dumped off the garbage truck before locating the shopping bag with the diamond.

U.S. Has Glut Of Gasoline, Oil

By MARTIN MERZER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — There is an abundant supply of heating oil and gasoline this winter and experts say the oil glut will last for the remainder of the year and possibly into 1978.

"There certainly has been a surplus in the range of 4 million to 5 million barrels a day," says Rawleigh Warner Jr., chairman of the Mobil Oil Corp. "The inventories are quite high."

The American Petroleum Institute reported recently that inventories of crude oil, gasoline and heating fuels were well above the inventories for the same time last year.

For the week ended Sept. 30, heating oil stocks rose to 245.8 million barrels. Some 231.2 million barrels were on hand in the same week last year.

Gasoline inventories for the same week were at 248.1 million barrels, compared with last year's supply at this time of 225.9 million barrels.

In addition, crude oil imports were up to 7.2 million barrels a day, compared with 5 million in the same week of last year.

The industry's best predictions call for the glut to continue through the end of the year and possibly into the beginning of next year. The only factor that might change that would be a severe winter and the resulting boost in demand for heating fuel. But forecasters believe this winter will be milder than last.

Despite the glut and the fact that some Middle East countries have been giving up premiums usually charged for their best oil, there will be few retail price decreases, experts said. There have been some small wholesale decreases, but most have not been passed on to consumers.

"United States oil prices should continue to rise because much of our domestic oil is under price controls and these ceilings are gradually lifting," said John Lichtblau, executive director of the Petroleum Industry Research Foundation.

How can there be all oil glut when everyone is talking about the energy crisis? Numbers tell the story.

Oil industry officials, expecting demand to maintain its large growth of recent years, boosted production. But the demand slackened.

The 700,000 barrels a day of oil from Alaska has halted the decline in U.S. production. North Sea production has doubled in the past year to more than one million barrels a day.

Canadian production rose by close to 10 per cent, and Mexican production increased by about 25 per cent. OPEC countries, meanwhile, boosted their already-massive production by 1 per cent.

At the same time, instead of the expected 4.5 per cent increase in U.S. gasoline consumption this year, fuel sales have increased by only 2 per cent. Officials now attribute that to the better mileage of newer cars and various conservation efforts. In Europe, demand has been flat.

Oil firms, their storage tanks brimming, continued refining the crude oil, meaning that gasoline and heating fuel inventories have been growing. Heating-oil experts say there will be no shortage of supplies this winter.

'End Of The World' Big Drawing Card

By HARRY ATKINS
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Hal Blay doesn't necessarily think "The End is Near," but he has some idea what it's going to be like when it comes.

What's more, people are paying good money to hear his views.

Every Tuesday, at a little past noon, Blay's classroom begins to fill with students taking his Humanities 6325 through Wayne State University's College of Lifelong Learning.

The title of the course is "Apocalypse: The End of the World."

Blay got the idea for the course, which he designed, while doing research for other adult education courses he has taught in past terms; courses that studied the Bible as literature or probed Van Dingen's, "Character of the Gods."

All of the courses have been filled to capacity, said Blay, a cherubic 43-year-old ordained Lutheran minister who recently became pastor of a congregation, relegating his teaching to part-time.

"I think mankind has always been interested in the unknown," he said. "He has always been a little afraid of it because of the fact that it is unknown."

He said he also thought recent occult movies like "The Exorcist" and sci-fi hits like "Star Wars" and "Logan's Run" also have heightened the general interest in the unknown.

Blay does not approach his students as a prophet or guru. Rather, he introduces what has been written and lets the students make up their own minds.

"My idea is not to influence people, but to present the different concepts," he said.

Privately, however, Blay said he feels that in the next 150 years the world is "going to be altered almost beyond recognition or else plunged back in time, so that it's still going to be altered, because man in his stupidity decided to destroy himself."

"It could occur anytime," he insisted. "It could happen tomorrow."

Blay defines apocalypse as a "gigantic change in the world — at least, civilization as we know it."

He said he is certain the end will be violent and that many will not survive it.

"It could be overnight or an ongoing thing that could take decades, perhaps even centuries," he explained. "If it is an ongoing thing, we could be witnessing our own apocalypse now."

He insists, however, that some will survive and mankind will prevail.

"Modern man is looking for whatever certainties he can find in a very uncertain world," Blay said. "And there are such things in terms of apocalypse — regardless of what that turns out to be."

'Fabulous Necktie Lady' Happily Tied Up In Work

By JIM KANE

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Nancy Ochsenschlager, known to some as the "Fabulous Necktie Lady," is happily tied up with her work.

Her colorful, bold creations may be seen gracing the necks of people all over Ann Arbor, the national and even in other corners of the world.

Can a girl with a name like Ochsenschlager from Aurora, Ill., make it in the big city? She has been making it and still is though the going has been at times, hand-to-mouth since she began making ties 10 years ago.

Nancy wasn't born into a tie-making family. Actually, the Ochsenschlagers who came to Illinois from Germany years ago, were farmers and grocers. Her last name has German medieval roots and means "ox-beater," or ox butcher.

Although she had earlier ambitions of becoming a tap dancer, Nancy decided she would rather tap on the chests of patients than tap dance on a stage and eventually came to Ann Arbor in 1959, where she enrolled at the University of Michigan's School of Nursing. After receiving her degree in 1962, she worked as a registered nurse at University Hospital.

The late '60s were not only a time of campus unrest, it also was the period of the wide, wild tie. She began selling ties at the Farmer's Market and was one of the first artists to set up a booth in 1970.

She quit nursing in 1973 for health reasons and began devoting full-time to making ties.

Although most of Nancy's ties are made of cotton, she also uses silk, antique silk, wool and flannel. Most of her ties are four inches wide and 56 inches long. She also makes a big man's tie which is 62 inches long. Her ties are two inches longer than the usual store-bought variety.

Nancy believes if you have to wear a tie, it should be outstanding. It should make a statement, reflect a personality and be a walking art piece.

In her collection are Levi ties with belt loops, pockets and zippers, and beer ties displaying different brands. Other subjects covered include sports, music, police and Bicentennial.

She also has a Tennessee Williams tie revealing a bright streetcar representing Williams' play "A Streetcar Named Desire."

One of her big sellers last year was the Bicentennial tie featuring a printing of the Declaration of Independence.

She received special orders from the U.S. House of Representatives on this creation. These ties ended up in the William Penn Museum at Harrisburg, Pa., the Museum Shop at Alexandria, Va., and the Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn's Greenfield Village.

John P. Roche Color Blind In One Eye?

There is a surrealistic aura around the debate over the Bakke case. Since discussion of this "reverse discrimination" action, shortly to be decided by the Supreme Court, has rapidly become a growth industry, the facts can be summarized concisely. The University of California Medical School at Davis in 1969 instituted a two-track admissions system, saving 16 admissions slots for the "disadvantaged."

The latter were not evaluated by the usual standards, but permitted to matriculate with substantially poorer academic backgrounds than the 84 on Track I. In practice whites were excluded from the category. Allan Bakke, turned down on Track I, discovered his record was better than most admitted on Track II and brought suit, claiming he was a victim of racial discrimination. The California Supreme Court agreed; its decision was appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court; rhetorical sluice gates opened.

As indicated here in the past, I have a special approach to "affirmative action." Faced with the choice between two candidates of equal talent, one white male and the other black or Hispanic or female (to take just three examples), I personally would choose one from the historically disadvantaged groups: not purely on the benefit of the person involved, but additionally because of the value I attribute to diversity. But under no circumstances would I go below the qualitative threshold.

Conversely, I am adamantly opposed to racial or sexual or ethnic quotas as in the Davis Track II system where, in a cosmetic quest for diversity, qualitative standards are rejected. Not only are quotas demeaning to the individuals involved — who are branded as dumb but chic — but they patently violate both the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution and the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

Infused, those who have asked the Supreme Court to sustain the Davis quota system (including the United States Department of Justice) are in essence demanding the justices declare both the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment and a provision of the 1964 statute based upon it unconstitutional. It took almost a century to get the Court to hold the Constitution color blind, but now a number of plaintiffs are arguing the Constitution need only be color blind in one eye.

Let us look at the Civil Rights Act provision the Court is supposed to ignore or overrule: "All persons shall be entitled to be free... from discrimination or segregation of any kind on the ground of race, color, religion, or national origin... by any law, statute, ordinance, regulation, rule or order of a State or any agency... thereof." The language is simple: debate on the floor of the Senate locked its intention in concrete: to obliterate these categories from American law.

Since they are weak on law, the proponents of the quota system, including Harvard, Columbia, Stanford and the University of Pennsylvania, have wandered off into pop sociology. The Friend of the court brief submitted by the four universities — and vested by the deans of their law schools — actually argues against a racially neutral standard of "disadvantage" on the ground that most of the poor and culturally deprived are white.

"Once a color-blind preference for the disadvantaged" was implemented... the number of minority applicants admitted would drop off sharply."

In other words, not content with endorsing a minority quota, they want disadvantaged whites to stay disadvantaged! Another section of this brief should be put to music: "It has been the experience of many university teachers that the insights provided by the participation of minority students enrich the curriculum, broaden the teachers' scholarly interests, and protect them from insensitivity to minority perspectives."

This is touching. But the fact that law professors at Harvard, Columbia, Stanford and Penn underwent consciousness raising experiences is no basis for declaring the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment unconstitutional. Justice William O. Douglas went to the heart of the matter in a 1974 opinion: "The Equal Protection Clause commands the elimination of racial barriers, not their creation in order to satisfy our theory as to how society ought to be organized." The defense rests.

Raider Winning String Snapped Turner Keys Upset

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
Jim Turner has to be higher than Denver, which is a mile high to begin with. The 36-year-old placekicker caught a touchdown pass in the Broncos' surprise rout of the Oakland Raiders.

Denver was leading Oakland 14-7 in the second quarter Sunday when Turner trotted on for a field-goal attempt. But it was a fake. Holder Norris Weese, a reserve quarterback, took the snap and rolled right to pass.

"I looked first for Riley Odoms (a tight end)," said Weese. "But you can't waste time on the play and I saw Turner wide open ... and couldn't believe it."

Turner had drifted to his left and was standing alone in the end zone where he caught the 25-yard pass that gave the Broncos a 21-7 halftime lead en route to a 30-7 victory. It boosted Denver to a 5-0 record and a one-game lead over Oakland in the American Conference West.

"I ran into the end zone out of fear," said Turner. "Speed wasn't involved."

While Turner's first touchdown in 14 National Football League seasons was certainly a highlight, it was the Denver defense that did in Oakland, intercepting seven Ken Stabler passes, three by linebacker Joe Rizzo, and recovering a fumble.

"We stunk up the place," said Stabler, who gave Oakland a 7-0 lead with a nine-yard scoring pass to tight end Dave Casper in the first quarter. But Denver tied it before the period ended on Craig Morton's 10-yard touchdown pass to Odoms and went ahead in the second quarter on Lonnie Perrien's 16-yard touchdown run.

The loss stopped Oakland's winning streak at 17 regular season and playoff games, one short of the record held by the Chicago Bears of 1933-34 and 1941-42 and the Miami Dolphins of 1972-73.

A successful fake field goal at Bloomington, Minn., resulted in a 21-16 victory for the Minnesota Vikings over the Chicago Bears in overtime.

"It seemed like the thing to do," said Bud Grant, who ordered the fake attempt on first down on the Chicago 11-yard line 8:45 into overtime. It worked as holder Paul Krause, a defensive back who played quarterback at Iowa, passed to Stu Voight near the goal and Voight took it in for the winner.

Chicago, which got 122 yards rushing from Walter Payton, had gone ahead 16-13 in the third quarter on Bob Avellini's two-yard pass to Greg Latta. Fred Cox then tied it at 16 with his third field goal, a 21-yarder, with 12:34 left in regulation time. Matt Blair, Minnesota's 6-foot-5 linebacker, played a key role by blocking a conversion attempt in the second quarter and a field-goal attempt with 1:41 left in regulation play.

Dallas and Baltimore remained the only other unbeaten NFL teams, each 5-0. Dallas whipping Washington 34-16 and Baltimore downing Kansas City 17-6. Elsewhere, Cleveland edged Houston 24-23, Buffalo downed Atlanta 3-0, Miami stopped the New York Jets 21-17, New England nipped San Diego 24-20, Detroit edged Green Bay 10-8, Los Angeles beat New Orleans 14-7, St. Louis topped Philadelphia 21-17, the New York Giants handled San Francisco 20-17, and Seattle outlasted Tampa Bay 30-23.

Efren Herrera kicked field goals of 44 and 52 yards. Roger Staubach threw a 59-yard touchdown pass to Drew Pearson, and Robert Newhouse scored a six-yard TD in the Cowboys' second-half explosion at Dallas. Washington had one net yard passing as Billy Kilmer was sacked five times.

"It wasn't pretty, but it was successful," said Baltimore quarter Bert Jones of the Colts' struggle against winless Kansas City. Baltimore wrapped up the game in the first quarter on short touchdown runs by Ron Lee and Don McCauley.

Houston's Billy Johnson returned a punt 87 yards for a touchdown before Cleveland took a 21-20 halftime lead on the strength of Brian Sipe's short TD pass. Houston went head 23-21 on Tony Fritsch's third field goal of the game in the fourth quarter, but Don Cockroft won it for the Browns on the final play of the game with a 36-yard three-pointer.

O.J. Simpson's seven-yard run on third down to the Atlanta 13-yard line set up Neil O'Donoghue's 30-yard field goal in the second quarter as the Bills snapped a 14-game losing streak, before only 27,348 fans, the smallest crowd in the five-year history of Buffalo's Rich Stadium.

Simpson's 138 yards rushing also pushed him to 10,082, making him only the second man to break the 10,000-yard mark in NFL history. The other is Jim Brown, who retired with 12,312 yards.

The Dolphins raced to a 21-3 halftime lead on two Bob Griese scoring passes and a five-yard touchdown run by Benny Malone, who had 105 yards in the game, then held off the Jets who got two scores on one-yard runs by Clark Gaines.

Steve Grogan hit Don Hasselbeck with a one-yard pass for a 7-0 New England lead and then clinched the victory with a four-yard toss to Hasselbeck with 3:06 left in the game. Sam Cunningham rushed for 141 yards for the Patriots.

"I did things to win. But I did not give a sterling performance," said Pat Haden, who played quarterback in place of Joe Namath and guided Los Angeles to a 14-7 win that tied the Rams with Atlanta at 3-2 for the NFC West lead. Lawrence McCutcheon's one-yard run and Wendell Tyler's 16-yard dash accounted for the Los Angeles touchdowns.

Jim Hart, playing with a neck injury, threw a 38-yard touchdown pass and Terry Metcalf ran 10 yards for one touchdown and Jerry Latini two yards for another as the Cardinals built up a 21-3 lead at Philadelphia, then withstood two fourth-quarter scoring passes by Ron Jaworski.

The Giants kept San Francisco winless by withstanding two late 49er touchdowns after building a 20-3 lead on two field goals, a 37-yard touchdown pass by Joe Pisarcik and Willie Spencer's one-yard scoring run. Steve Myer threw touchdown passes of 8, 4, 45 and 44 yards, with the last one breaking a 23-23 tie and giving the Seahawks a victory that kept Tampa winless in 19 games since it joined the NFL last season. "We tackled like a bunch of guys in junior high," said Tampa Bay Coach John McKay.

TRICKY TD: Faking a kick, Denver Broncos' Norris Weese (14) kept the ball as kicker Jim Turner (15) swung through (left). Then Weese passed to Turner for a touchdown (right) in the second quarter Sunday. The play was good for 25 yards and helped Denver upset Oakland, 30-7. (AP Wirephoto)

Vikings' Fake FG Beats Bears In OT

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Sly Bud Grant called on the unconventional Sunday with a fake field goal which kept his Minnesota Vikings on the road to their perennial spot in the National Football League playoffs.

"It seemed like the time to do it," Grant said of the 11-yard touchdown pass from defensive back Paul Krause to tight end Stu Voight which gave the Vikings a 21-16 overtime victory over the Chicago Bears.

"I figured it was a super call," said Krause, a 14-year veteran who played some quarterback at Iowa before joining his right arm. "Bud said if we got the ball down near the 10-yard line we'll try a fake field goal."

But Grant even surprised veteran quarterback Fran Tarkenton when he sent in the field goal unit, after the Vikings' Chuck Foreman had run four yards for a first down on the Chicago 11.

"He doesn't ask anybody's advice on that," said Tarkenton. "I wasn't aware it was a fake until I saw the play. He's un-can't in making decisions of that type. He always has been and always will be. You don't question things like that."

The winning play came with 6:45 elapsed in the sudden death session and capped an 80-yard scoring drive.

There was some confusion when Grant sent the kicking team onto the field. Tarkenton called time out before leaving the field because the Vikings had only eight seconds left to snap the ball or be penalized for delay of game.

"We might have run one more play but we definitely would have kicked it before fourth down," Grant said. He said Krause, who holds the ball on field goals and extra points for Fred Cox, would have thrown the ball away if the receivers had been covered.

Krause rolled to his right and spotted Voight near the goal line. Reserve tight end Steve Craig and linebacker Jeff Siemon were other possible receivers. "I don't think the Bears were expecting it and some of our players sure weren't expecting it," said Voight.

"We had the receiver they wanted (Craig) covered," said Chicago Coach Jack Pardee of the winning play. "He (Krause) fools around and gets it to someone else — just like all those other scrambled plays."

"Minnesota beat us in their typical fashion, blocked kicks and stuff like that," added Pardee.

The Bears dropped to 2-3, while the Vikings raised their record to 4-1 and remained one game ahead of the Detroit Lions in the Central Division of the National Football Conference.

Minnesota's Matt Blair blocked a 41-yard field goal attempt by Bob Thomas which would have won the game for the Bears late in the fourth quarter.

Blair also blocked an extra point attempt by Thomas after the Bears' first touchdown in the second quarter.

Bob Avellini threw a 9-yard TD pass to Bo Rafter for the Bears' first score after Minnesota had taken a 13-0 lead. Thomas kicked a 38-yard field goal in the third quarter and Avellini put Chicago ahead 16-13 with a 2-yard pass to Greg Latta.

Fred Cox, who kicked field goals of 30 and 38 yards in the first half, sent the game into overtime with a 21-yard field

Pitt May Start Bradshaw

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers, coming off a black Sunday, look for a little light tonight against the Cincinnati Bengals.

"It's important for us to win."

"We've got some tough competition in our division," said Terry Bradshaw, who may start at quarterback for the Steelers with a plastic cast on the left wrist he fractured in a punishing loss last Sunday in Houston.

Bradshaw cracked the small bone in his wrist when he fell on it after being run out of bounds, but he returned to practice last week with the aid of the cast.

"Terry's an amazingly rapid healer," Steeler team physician Dr. Paul Steele said last week. "I'm going back to medical school and take a class on Bradshaw."

If Bradshaw can't play in tonight's nationally televised game, his loss will be nothing new to the Steelers. He was sidelined with a serious neck sprain when Pittsburgh earned a pivotal 23-6 victory here last season over the Bengals.

However, the man who quarterbacked Pittsburgh in that 1976 game, Mike Kruczek, is out for the season with a shoulder separation also sustained in Houston.

That means the Steeler starter will be Bradshaw or four-year veteran Neil Gaff, who rejoined the team this week after being cut late in preseason.

Both the Steelers and Bengals take 2-2 records into the game, and Cincinnati will be bidding for its first victory ever at Three Rivers Stadium, where it has lost seven in a row.

The Bengals are coming off a 17-7 victory over the Green Bay Packers, and the Cincinnati running game may be bolstered by the return of running back Archie Griffin, who's been nursing a rib injury.

The winner of the game will gain a share of first place in the tightly-bunched AFC Central Division with the Cleveland Browns and the Houston Oilers, both 3-2 after the Browns' 24-23 victory Sunday over the Oilers.

"We know them. They know us," said Bengals quarterback Ken Anderson. "There are no secrets."

Gale Force Wind Helps Catholic Edge Watervliet

BY PAUL MORGAN
Staff Sports Writer

A gale force wind turned out to be both friend and foe for Lake Michigan Catholic Saturday night.

Running back Bill Couvelis rambled in for a touchdown from the four-yard line with 1:48 left in the game to give Catholic, ranked third in the AP's Class C poll, a come-from-behind 20-14 win over Watervliet before 3,000 fans at Dickinson Stadium.

Couvelis fourth down TD run was set up by one of the windiest passes of the season. Going against the wind in the last quarter, Mike Masini lofted a pass from his 17 towards Jack Visin who was running a hope-and-a-prayer pattern.

On a normal night the ball would have been overthrown by 10 yards. But this wasn't a normal night. The wind held the ball up long enough for Visin to run under it at the 85. He eventually was hauled down by three-footed Jeff Parker on the 18, but Parker was nailed for a facemask penalty which put the ball on the nine.

Three plays later, unbeaten

Catholic was on the four and it looked like Watervliet might hold. But Couvelis, with some good second effort, slid into the end zone.

"Oh, I was in by at least that much," Couvelis grinned, holding his hands about four inches apart.

"Jack just knew he had to catch that pass," Lakers' head coach Terry Rose said. "And he came through. Like Bill did when he scored. Great second effort got him in."

Catholic, 6-0 on the year and first in the Red Arrow at 5-0, almost didn't get a chance to pull the game out of the fire. Watervliet showed it wanted the state playoff points as much as Catholic, scoring twice in the first eight minutes of the game. The Panthers held Catholic on the first series and Jon Masini managed a 14-yard punt into the wind. Taking over on the Lakers' 24-yard line, quarterback Jim Hutchinson ran two plays and lofted a nice pass — with the wind — to a wide open Parker on the left side. It was good for 27 yards and a score with 8:24 left in the quarter.

After holding Catholic again, the Panthers got great field position and marched 62 yards on five plays with swingback Steve Schultz going the last 23 yards with 4:04 remaining, giving Watervliet a 14-0 lead.

But the Lakers didn't panic, even though Couvelis muffed the kickoff and could only get it back to the three-yard line. Mike Masini engineered a beautiful 97-yard, 13-play drive with Couvelis going over from the three with 10:26 left in the first half.

Two key plays in the drive kept it going: On a second-and-Borrien County-to-go play, Masini hit Phil Banks with a screen pass. Banks had five blockers in front of him and gained 24 yards. On the next play from Watervliet's 48, Masini ran a quarterback draw down to the seven, and only Parker saved a TD.

After forcing the Panthers to punt into the wind, Catholic went 38 yards on eight plays to tie it up. Bruce Blakeman carried the ball the last five yards with 4:22 left in the half.

Rose was very pleased with the way the Lakers played after giving up two quick scores. "I feel that the kids knew they could get back in the game," he stated. "That long drive really fired them up. I'm proud of our kids. When the chips were down, they put the ball in the end zone."

The wind changed a lot of strategy. "In the first half, the wind was the major factor for both teams," Rose declared. "In the second half, it started to die a little and so if you threw short and low, it didn't affect them."

In the third quarter, we chose to go against the wind so we would have it with us in the last quarter," commented Panthers' head coach Doug Borsum.

Oddly enough, with the wind at their backs, the Lakers only passed the ball twice in the third quarter. "That was dumb on my part to not throw the ball," Rose said. "I got involved in the game and thought we could run on them. We should have passed."

The Panthers, 5-1 on the season and 4-1 in the league, held Catholic, which had averaged 215.6 yards rushing per game, to just 166. Seven gridders totted the ball for Catholic with Couvelis' 66 yards in 19 carries leading the pack. Masini netted 54.

Mark Bohn of Watervliet had another great night. The hard-hitting tailback gained 102 yards on 22 carries. Fullback Fred Frazee added 82 yards and Schultz had 32. The Panthers totaled 211 yards on the ground and 21 in the air.

Masini was three for eight for 108 yards. Visin caught two of them for 83 yards.

"One of the things which pleased me was that we played error free ball," Rose mentioned. "We didn't lose any fumbles. On the other hand, we recovered two of theirs and only scored on one of them."

Clancy Rose and Chris Hucker covered the loose balls. Catholic also kept down the penalties. In the last two games, the Lakers had amassed 268 yards. Saturday, they were caught just three times for 23 yards.

Borsum was obviously disappointed after the contest. "We as a coaching staff and athletic department are very proud of our young men," he stated. "They played with their hearts and souls and I feel they deserved to win. But that one play beat us."

That one play and a little help from a northwest wind.

Watervliet's Jeff Parker (18) was nailed for a facemask penalty which put the ball on the nine.

Three plays later, unbeaten

Catholic was on the four and it looked like Watervliet might hold. But Couvelis, with some good second effort, slid into the end zone.

"Oh, I was in by at least that much," Couvelis grinned, holding his hands about four inches apart.

"Jack just knew he had to catch that pass," Lakers' head coach Terry Rose said. "And he came through. Like Bill did when he scored. Great second effort got him in."

Catholic, 6-0 on the year and first in the Red Arrow at 5-0, almost didn't get a chance to pull the game out of the fire. Watervliet showed it wanted the state playoff points as much as Catholic, scoring twice in the first eight minutes of the game. The Panthers held Catholic on the first series and Jon Masini managed a 14-yard punt into the wind. Taking over on the Lakers' 24-yard line, quarterback Jim Hutchinson ran two plays and lofted a nice pass — with the wind — to a wide open Parker on the left side. It was good for 27 yards and a score with 8:24 left in the quarter.

After holding Catholic again, the Panthers got great field position and marched 62 yards on five plays with swingback Steve Schultz going the last 23 yards with 4:04 remaining, giving Watervliet a 14-0 lead.

But the Lakers didn't panic, even though Couvelis muffed the kickoff and could only get it back to the three-yard line. Mike Masini engineered a beautiful 97-yard, 13-play drive with Couvelis going over from the three with 10:26 left in the first half.

Two key plays in the drive kept it going: On a second-and-Borrien County-to-go play, Masini hit Phil Banks with a screen pass. Banks had five blockers in front of him and gained 24 yards. On the next play from Watervliet's 48, Masini ran a quarterback draw down to the seven, and only Parker saved a TD.

After forcing the Panthers to punt into the wind, Catholic went 38 yards on eight plays to tie it up. Bruce Blakeman carried the ball the last five yards with 4:22 left in the half.

Rose was very pleased with the way the Lakers played after giving up two quick scores. "I feel that the kids knew they could get back in the game," he stated. "That long drive really fired them up. I'm proud of our kids. When the chips were down, they put the ball in the end zone."

The wind changed a lot of strategy. "In the first half, the wind was the major factor for both teams," Rose declared. "In the second half, it started to die a little and so if you threw short and low, it didn't affect them."

In the third quarter, we chose to go against the wind so we would have it with us in the last quarter," commented Panthers' head coach Doug Borsum.

Oddly enough, with the wind at their backs, the Lakers only passed the ball twice in the third quarter. "That was dumb on my part to not throw the ball," Rose said. "I got involved in the game and thought we could run on them. We should have passed."

Two-Goalie Bruin System Winless

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The saying is "three into two won't go," but the adage is being turned around a bit by Boston Bruins Coach Don Cherry these days ... it's two goalies into three periods WILL GO.

It hasn't been successful yet, since the Bruins have yet to win in three games this National Hockey League season. But if Cherry is having second thoughts about starting one goalie and finishing with another, he isn't saying.

Sunday night he started goalie Gilles Gilbert against the Montreal Canadiens, then replaced him with Ron Grahame. He may not have realized that the Canadiens rarely care WHO the goalie is, they have no mercy.

So defenseman Larry Robinson scored a goal and set up Steve Shutt's first of the year and Ken Dryden blocked 22 Bruins shots to give the Canadiens their third triumph in as many games with a 2-0 decision over Cherry and his troops.

In other NHL games, the Philadelphia Flyers bombed the St. Louis Blues 7-0, the Chicago

Black Hawks blanked the Buffalo Sabres 2-0 and the New York Rangers topped the New York Islanders 4-2.

Three goals by Dan Saleksi backed Wayne Stephenson's 25-save shutout and carried the unbeaten Flyers to their third victory. The Blues, who have lost their three games, have managed only a tie in their last 13 contests at Philadelphia's Spectrum home since winning 3-2 in January, 1972.

Chicago goalie Mike Veisor stopped 34 Buffalo shots to record his first NHL shutout since the 1971-72 season.

The victory was Chicago's first over Buffalo on the Sabres' home ice in the 12 games since Dec. 9, 1971. The Hawks had managed only two ties in the interim.

Tight wing Ken Hodge scored the winning goal during a third-period power play and center Phil Esposito had three assists to carry the Rangers past their intra-city rivals, Esposito, the veteran center, now has seven points in his first three games.

Heavens' Running Keys Irish Victory

Record Effort Beats Army

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Army's Cadets could have used some help from Glenn Davis, Doc Blanchard or maybe a howitzer to punch holes in Notre Dame's tough defense in the 43rd renewal of the classic intersectional rivalry.

But none was available for action and Cadets suffered their 21st defeat of the series, 24-0, when the teams met before 72,384 at Giants Stadium Saturday. The win raised 11th-ranked Notre Dame's record to 4-1 and dropped Army to 3-3.

Army first played the Fighting Irish in 1913 and has won only eight encounters in the series, the last a 14-2 victory in 1958. Four games ended in ties.

While the Irish defense was stopping the Cadet running game cold and forcing Army quarterbacks into three interceptions, the offense was being led by workhorse halfback Jerome Heavens, who established a new Notre Dame rushing record with 200 yards in 34 carries.

The 6-foot, 200-pound junior broke the single game record set by Emil Sitko against Michigan State in 1948.

"Emil Sitko, who's that?" was Heavens' comment when he learned he broke the old standard. The junior ran for 119 yards in the first half and 81 in the second.

The heavily favored Irish, leading only 7-0 at half on a three-yard scoring run by Heavens, overcame mistakes and a stubborn Cadet defense to pile 17 points on the board after interception.

Heavens' backfield companion, halfback Terry Enrick, scored on a two-yard plunge in the third quarter and a three-yard run with less than two minutes remaining in the game. Enrick capped 60-yard Irish drives masterminded by quarterback Joe Montana.

Despite Notre Dame's 342-yard ground assault, Montana managed to complete 8 of 17 passes for 108 yards. He had one interception.

Dan Reeves added a 29-yard third quarter field goal.

Army blew its best scoring opportunity in the second quarter when linebacker Dave Charest intercepted a Montana pass and returned it to the 21. But Cadet quarterback Learian Hull was intercepted on the nine by Luther Bradley on the next play, killing the threat.

It was the first time the teams have met in New Jersey. Twenty-five of the previous 42 games were played in New York City, 10 at West Point, five at South Bend, one in Chicago and one in Philadelphia.

The weekend's best college passing performance belonged to Brigham Young's Marc Wilson. Making his first start in place of the injured Gifford Nielsen, Wilson passed for 332 yards and a mere seven touchdowns in the Cougars' 63-17 drubbing of previously unbeaten Colorado State.

Randy McEachern of second-ranked Texas, which beat Oklahoma last week, also made his first varsity start and, while he didn't throw any touchdown passes, he delivered key completions of 14, 31 and 28 yards in an 80-yard fourth-quarter drive that produced the game's only touchdown and a 13-0 victory over eighth-ranked Arkansas.

The losers' Steve Little kicked a 47-yard field goal, tying the major college record set earlier in the season by Russell Erdelen of Texas.

Besides Arkansas and Wisconsin, three other members of the Top Twenty were beaten while third-ranked Colorado was held to a 17-17 deadlock by Kansas.

L.M. Hipp rushed for 165 yards and all three Nebraska touchdowns but committed a fumble that enabled Iowa State to upset the ninth-ranked Cornhuskers 24-21 on Scott Kollman's 32-yard field goal in the third period.

Art Still rambled 52 yards with a blocked field goal, Dallas Owens logged an intercepted pass 81 yards and 12th-ranked Kentucky held Charles Alexander, the nation's leading rusher, to 87 yards as the Wildcats knocked off No. 18 Louisiana State 33-13.

And Southern Methodist scored an incredible three touchdowns in the final 39 seconds to turn back No. 19 Houston 37-23. The Mustangs took a 24-23 lead on Arthur Whittington's 14-yard run. Tennell Atkins scored 20 seconds later after a Houston fumble and D.K. Perry returned an interception 37 yards on the game's final play.

Meanwhile, quarterback Brian Bethke came off the bench and engineered a pair of second-half touchdown drives that enabled Kansas to erase a 17-3 deficit and knot Colorado.

Elsewhere, Jeff Rutledge tallied twice and fired a 30-yard scoring pass to Ozzie Newsome as fourth-ranked Alabama trimmed Tennessee for the seventh year in a row 24-10. "I never dreamed I would see that," said "Bama's Bear" Bryant.

Ohio State quarterback Rod Gerald also scored twice in leading the fifth-ranked Buckeyes past Iowa 27-6 and Rob Hertel of sixth-ranked Southern California tossed TD passes of 51 yards to Randy Simmrin and 44 to Kevin Williams as the Trojans slaughtered past Oregon 33-15.

Oklahoma's Thomas Lott sprinted 65 and 62 yards to set up a pair of touchdowns as the seventh-ranked Sooners wiped out a 10-0 deficit and nipped Missouri 21-17.

Tenth-ranked Penn State, which has won so many games under Joe Paterno, won one without him. The coach remained at the bedside of his 11-year-old son David, who suffered a fractured skull in a trampoline mishap, while the Nittany Lions outlasted Syracuse 31-24, despite a record 329-yard passing effort by the losers' Bill Hurley.

Texas A&M's David Walker equaled the school record by throwing three touchdown passes as the 13th-ranked Aggies built a 35-7 lead and held off Baylor 38-31.

Texas Tech, the No. 15 team, scored three times in the third period — two touchdowns coming after an interception by Richard Arledge and a blocked punt by Larry Flowers — and trounced Rice 42-7.

Elliott Walker rushed for 109 yards and two TDs to lead No. 17 Pitt over Navy 34-17 while Charlie Young set a school total offense mark of 399 yards — 375 through the air — as No. 20 California blasted Oregon State 41-17. Young's outburst included scoring passes of 83 yards to Floyd Eddings and 65 and 43 to

Liut Is 'Great' In Stinger Debut

CINCINNATI (AP) — Credit rookie goalie Mike Liut of the Cincinnati Stingers with a flair for the dramatic.

"Every goaltender remembers his first game. He's either great or lousy. Liut chose to be great," said Coach Harry Neale of the New England Whalers.

Liut rejected 31 shots in his major league debut Sunday to key a 6-2 Cincinnati victory over the Whalers in World Hockey Association action. In the other WHA game Sunday night, the Winnipeg Jets bombed the Indianapolis Racers 9-1.

The 21-year-old former Bowling Green University star benefitted from a five goal first-period barrage ignited by Robbie Ftorek's two goals and three assists from Rethic Ladue.

Bohby Hull, Kent Ruhke and Lars-Erik Sjöberg scored two goals apiece to pace Winnipeg's rout of Indianapolis. The Racers took a 1-0 lead when Lynn Fowles connected after just 1:35, but the Jets proceeded to bury Indianapolis goalie Gary Inness under a 37-shot, nine-goal barrage.

Late Touchdown Gets MSU A Tie

IU Clearly Dominates 13-13 Deadlock

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — A tie may be better than a loss in the record book, but not to a disappointed Indiana team whose costly fumbles canceled drive after drive in a game the Hoosiers clearly dominated.

"We wanted a victory," said Indiana flanker Keith Calvin, who set a school record with 11 pass receptions for 153 yards in Saturday's 13-13 tie with Michigan State. "I guess you can just kiss this one off."

Indiana rolled up 498 yards fumbled. Michigan State Coach Darryl Rogers decided to go for the tie rather than a possible victory, and Nielsen kicked the extra point.

"I can't believe they just went for one point," said Arnett, who completed 19 of 32 passes for 233 yards. "A tie is better than a loss, but it's still disappointing."

Arnett wasn't the only one who was puzzled by Rogers' strategy, but the Spartan coach defended his decision.

"We had lost six football players at that point, and we'd come from so far and hadn't been close to doing anything," Rogers said. "I don't like a tie, but circumstances dictated a tie. We have a two-point play, but two of the players in the two-point play (Kirk Gibson and Leroy McGee) were on the sidelines."

Indiana's pass defense, tops in the Big Ten and No. 3 in the nation, held the Spartan quarterback—last year's conference passing leader—to just six completions for 84 yards. It was one of those completions, a 27-yarder to Barry Harris at the Indiana 1, that set up Mullins' tying touchdown.

The tie left both teams with identical records of 1-1 in the Big Ten and 2-3 overall. Michigan State travels to Wisconsin Saturday.

"...those things (the fumbles) happen, and you have to have confidence in your people," Indiana coach Lee Corso said. "We have good solid people, and they react well to adversity...we just keep struggling."

Kickers David Friend of Indiana and Hans Nielsen of Michigan State booted two field goals apiece, and the score stood 6-6 until Indiana jumped in front on an 8-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Scott Arnett to Markus Hardy early in the fourth quarter.

Then, in the game's closing minutes, Spartan quarterback Ed Smith directed an 80-yard drive that ended when tackle John Mullinsy pounced on the ball in the Indiana end zone after teammate Steve Smith

Hannah Surprise Motocross Champ

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

BUCHANAN — His nickname is "Hurricane," and Bob Hannah blew past the competition in the Buchanan Trans-AMA Motocross race here Sunday.

Hannah outdistanced the field to win both motos and capture the overall 500cc International Class title before more than 5,000 fans at Redbud Track and Trail.

BOB HANNAH

Just 21 and in only his third year of competition Hannah believes he's just reaching his riding potential.

"It was muddy and I'm just learning how to run in the mud," he said. "I'm riding better this year, but then I'm still just learning."

The Whittier, Calif. native finished sixth in last year's Trans-AMA standings. But Hannah's victory Sunday moved the slender 5-8, 149-pounder into second place for 1977. Three-time defending champion Roger DeCoster of Belgium has 157 points and Hannah boasts 149.

Hannah copped his victory with almost no breaking power. His brake level bent over the foot peg during the first moto and caused Hannah problems the remainder of the day.

Hannah debuted on the national circuit in the 500cc class with the Florida Winter-AMA Series title in 1976. He won five of eight races to win the 125cc National Championship and placed sixth in the 250cc standings despite riding only part of the series. He later rode on the U.S. team in the Trophée des Nations and Motocross des Nations. Hannah was one of two Americans to register a Trans-AMA win last year.

Jim Pomerooy of Yakima, Wash. was second in both motos to wind up second overall. Tommy Craft of San Diego, Calif. was third with a pair of fourth-place finishes.

San Diego's Marty Smith was fourth overall. DeCoster, who won the race the past three years, never really got on track Sunday. Finishing seventh in the first moto and eighth in the second, DeCoster wound up seventh overall.

Chuck Sun of Sherwood, Ore. rallied to win the 250cc Support Class. Sun took both motos, but needed a brilliant comeback in the second race.

Ray Ritchie of Buchanan was 20th in the first race and 25th in the second.

Bob Rutter of St. Joseph was unable to finish either moto. His bike stalled on the second lap of the first moto and he had problems the rest of the day.

IN THE MUD: Eventual champion Bob Hannah splashes around a turn during Sunday's 500cc Trans-AMA Motocross event, leaving behind a trail of flying mud. Despite intermittent rain and snow, which left the track wet and slippery, more than 5,000 fans watched the racing at Redbud Track and Trail in Buchanan. Hannah won both 500cc motos to win the international title. (Staff photos by Jack Walkden)

Assists Fellow Pro Irwin Wins Title, Respect

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Hale Irwin won $30,000, a golf tournament and a ton of respect from a fellow golf pro after his closing-round three-under-par 67 in the $150,000 Texas Open.

Irwin, battling Texan Miller Barber for the first place prize, paused on the 18th tee Sunday to offer encouragement to Carlton "Slugger" White, a second-year pro fighting for his PGA player's card.

White entered the Texas Open with $924.50 in earnings this year and needed to bring his winnings up to $7,000 or forfeit his card. Fifth place in the tournament would breathe life into his golf career, but a poorly hit wedge shot on the 17th hole resulted in a double bogey six that plummeted White from third to a fourth place tie with George Archer.

"I can't describe how bad I felt after making that double bogey," said an emotional White. "But Hale came over and patted me on the back and told me to forget it. That I still had a chance."

White then placed his tee shot at the treacherous 17th hole about 10 feet below the pin. He two-putted for a par three and collected $6,600, thus assuring himself of at least another year on the tour.

"I was really pulling for him," said Irwin, whose Texas Open title was his third four win of the year and raised his season money-winning total to $221,455.

"We have a lot of Carlton Whites on the tour. Good players and gentlemen who face a this-week-or-never situation. It's one thing to play well for first and another to play for your career," Irwin said.

Barber bogeyed the final hole to finish with a 68-268 for second place. Last year Barber was the runnerup in this event, the oldest PGA tournament in Texas, losing to Butch Baird in a sudden death playoff.

Kite, with a closing one-over-par 71, wrapped up third place with a 270 total. Former U.S. Open champion Lou Graham finished fifth at 70-275.

Irwin's victory, sealed by consecutive birdie putts of 25 and 12 feet on the 18th and 15th holes, lifted his yearly earnings to $221,455, marking the third consecutive year his has topped the $200,000 mark.

Wayne Now Sole GLIAC Leader

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wayne State's 50-0 romp over Evansville wasn't a conference game, but the Tartars wound up taking sole possession of first place anyway in the Great Lakes football race over the weekend.

It was Ferris State's 6-3 conference triumph Saturday over Hillsdale that did it. Hillsdale had been tied for first with Wayne State in the GLIAC.

In other games involving Michigan teams, Albion defeated Adrian 20-0, Hope downed Olivet 42-14 and Alma zipped past Kalamazoo 34-14 in the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association.

Minnesota-Morris defeated Michigan Tech 26-0 in the Northern Intercollegiate Conference. In a nonconference game, Ashland, Ohio, defeated Northwood 20-16.

Grand Valley State dumped Saginaw Valley 41-14 in the GLIAC and Northern Michigan defeated Wisconsin-Whitewater 38-14 in a nonconference match.

In the Wayne State-Evansville game in Indiana, Moe Dozier and Bruce Nichols each scored two touchdowns for the Tartars, who are now 2-1 in the GLIAC and 3-2 overall. It was Wayne's fourth shutout of the season.

At Hillsdale, Bob Alger intercepted a pass with 38 seconds left to stop a drive and give Ferris the victory. The Bulldogs are 2-2 in the GLIAC and 2-4 overall, while Hillsdale slipped to 2-2 in the league and 4-3 overall.

Senior quarterback Roy Gonzalez threw four touchdowns passes and ran for a fifth TD as Grand Valley State routed Saginaw. The winners evened their records to 1-1 and 3-3, while Saginaw fell to 1-2 in the league and 3-4 overall.

In a come-from-behind decision at Midland, Dan Hall caught six passes for 201 yards and two touchdowns to lead Ashland over Northwood. The loss was only the second in six games for Northwood, which entered the game ranked No. 8 in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics weekly poll.

At Houghton, quarterback Al Kreh ran for a pair of touchdowns in leading Minnesota-Morris over Michigan Tech. The Huskies are 1-4 in NIC play and 2-5 for the season.

Quarterback Ken Bieh threw for 297 yards and four touchdowns to pace Alma in its MIAA decision over home-team Kalamazoo. Alma stands at 4-2 overall and 1-2 in the league; Kalamazoo dropped to 3-2 and 1-1.

Mike Skelton rushed for 84 yards to lead Hope in its triumph over Olivet. The Dutchmen raised their MIAA record to 1-1 and 2-3 overall. Olivet fell to 0-2 and 0-4.

At Adrian, Tom Klus scored three field goals and two extra points as Albion spotted Adrian's homecoming. Albion leads the MIAA with a 3-0 record and is 5-1 overall compared with the 1-1 and 3-3 marks of Adrian.

At Whitewater, Wis., Reggie Webster scored four touchdowns as Northern Michigan defeated Wisconsin-Whitewater. Whitewater took an early lead but the Wildcats had moved to a 14-7 lead by the end of the first quarter. Northern Michigan is now 6-1.

Little-Used Healy May Be Feuding Yankees' MVP

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

He hasn't rapped out a hit. He hasn't scored a run. In fact, he hasn't been in an official game since Aug. 31 and he's appeared in only one since Aug. 12.

Yet, if the New York Yankees should go on to win the World Series, he should be given some consideration for the Most Valuable Player award.

His name is Francis Xavier Healy. To feuding Reggie Jackson and Thurman Munson and maybe even to Manager Billy Martin, he should be called "St. Francis."

St. Francis the Peacemaker. "If it hadn't been for Fran, I am not sure I could have survived all the pressure of the summer," says Jackson, the team's volatile $2.9 million outfielder.

"He's been a mountain of strength for me," Munson, the Yankees' proud and sensitive catcher, speaks in less flamboyant language but the message comes across just the same.

"A great friend — I appreciate everything he has done," adds Munson.

When Jackson and Munson were at each other's throats after the big, mustachioed catcher took offense at a remark attributed to Jackson in a magazine article — "I am the straw that stirs the drink, Munson could only stir it bad" — it was Healy who smoothed the waters.

When Jackson and Martin almost came to blows in the dugout after Jackson was yanked from a nationally televised game at Boston in June, it was Healy who prevented the incident from becoming a disruptive flareup.

When the Yankees appeared near collapse from internal bickering in mid-August, it was Healy who got Munson and Jackson together and, as a group, interceded to save Martin's job with owner George Steinbrenner.

"Aw, I've done nothing," insists the 6-foot-5, soft-natured third string catcher from Holyoke, Mass. "I'm a good friend of Reggie's. I am also a good friend of Thurman's and a good friend of Billy's."

"I don't want to see these guys cut each other up."

Healy, 31, began his big league career at Kansas City in 1968, played briefly at San Francisco, returned to Kansas City, then came to the Yankees in exchange for Larry Gura in 1976.

Healy appeared in 48 games for the Yankees in 1976, filling in for Munson in mid-summer, but has seen less service this season because of the acquisition of another backup catcher, Cliff Johnson.

"I got to know Reggie when he was with Oakland and I was with Kansas City," Healy says. "When Reggie came to the Yankees, he, Munson and I hit it off well. We went out together and ribbed each other all the time."

After Reggie's magazine article appeared, the relationship between Reggie and Thurman cooled. I tried my best to keep them both loose."

Says Jackson: "I was going through hell at this time. I was getting creamed by the press. The fans were on me. My father quit going to Yankee games. My mother wouldn't listen to them."

"I got moody and depressed," says Jackson. "It was Fran who jolted me out of it. He talked to me hours on end. He helped me beat my batting slump. He was a guiding light."

Healy scoffs at the suggestion that he is a diamond Dr. Kinsinger.

"They talk about this being a team of egos," he said. "I think it's a euphemism for pride. The owner, Jackson and Munson are all proud and highly charged."

"They all want to win. This generates sparks and drive. That's why the Yankees win. They don't accept defeat gracefully."

"I am friendly with both Reggie and Thurman, but they are different. Reggie reflects first, then reacts. Thurman reacts, then reflects."

"They complement each other. They are volatile. But they are great for baseball, great for the Yankees."

LA Players Leery Of New York Fans

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dusty Baker says he wouldn't care if he was in Vietnam if the World Series was there but some of his Dodgers teammates remain a little leery of the fans in New York.

Los Angeles goes back East for Tuesday's Game 6 trailing the Yankees 3 games to 2, having avoided elimination with a 10-4 victory Sunday behind right-hander Don Sutton.

"Actually, I've never been to Vietnam," admitted Baker, who had three hits and scored two runs Sunday. "It just doesn't matter to me where we play. It's better than going home for the winter."

Second baseman Davey Lopes, however, said: "I can't speak for the other guys, but speaking for myself, I'm going to wear a hard hat out there."

Reggie Smith, the Dodger who was hurt when hit on the head by a hard rubber ball thrown by a fan in the final inning of Game 2 which the Dodgers won, was reluctant to comment.

"I'm just going to play a game, that's all... that's my feeling," said the veteran who had muscle spasms in his back following the New York incident last week.

Shortstop Bill Russell said he believes the problem of controlling fans in Yankee Stadium is serious.

"They do not have enough security there to control it," Russell said. "Fans like that don't deserve a ball club."

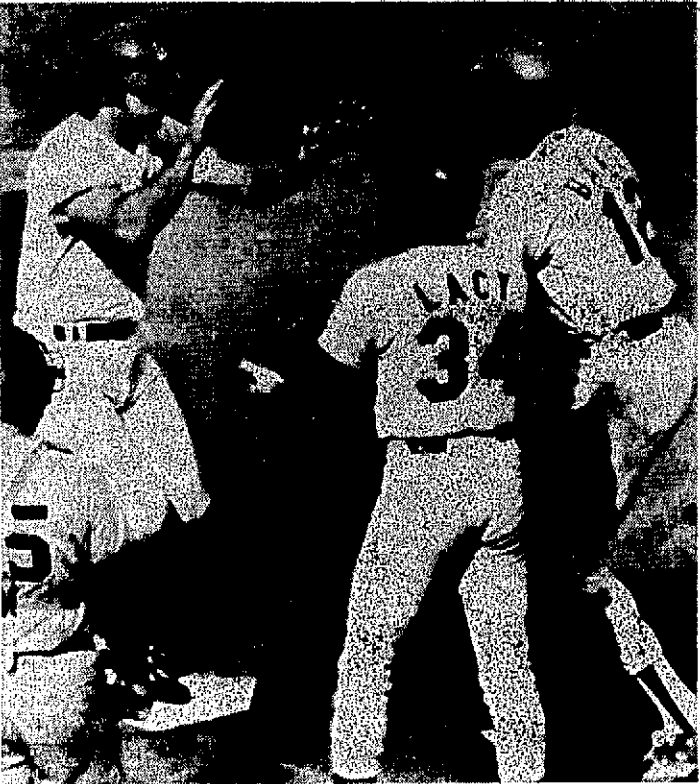

Tom Lasorda, who has his club in the World Series in his first year of managing, tempered the feelings when he said: "I'm glad we're going back to New York. The Yankee fans are good fans. You can't judge all by a few looks."

The hapless Dodgers were catcher Steve Yeager and pitcher Sutton.

Yeager's three-run homer in the fourth provided a 3-0 margin for Sutton.

Of the Don Gullet pitch he belted over the left field wall, Yeager said, "He was throwing off-speed stuff, fork-balls or palm-balls or whatever. This time he got the ball up."

"We had our backs to the wall, do or die," Yeager said. "My home run took the pressure off the other guys. I think they might have said, 'Yeager's having fun. Why don't the rest of us?'"

YEAGER COMES THROUGH: Los Angeles Dodgers' Steve Yeager jumps on the plate after hitting a three-run homer in the fourth inning Sunday to put the Dodgers up by a 5-0 count at that time in game five of the World Series. Welcoming Yeager are Dusty Baker (12) and Lee Lacy (34) while New York's Thurman Munson (15) stands by. LA downed the Yankees, 10-4, to force a sixth game at New York Tuesday night. (AP Wirephoto)

Figueroa Injury Alters NY Plans

LOS ANGELES (AP) — They don't call the New York Yankees the Bronx Zoo for nothing.

At 4 p.m. PDT Sunday, Manager Billy Martin was asked to name his starting pitcher for the sixth game of the World Series Tuesday night in New York.

"Ed Figueroa," he said.

Why not Mike Torrez?

"Because I said Ed Figueroa."

But an hour later, just as the Yankees were about to head for Los Angeles International Airport following a 10-4, fifth-game trouncing at the hands of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Martin was slinging a different tune.

"Torrez will pitch the sixth game," he said.

What happened?

Figueroa has been troubled by a nerve in the index finger of his pitching hand since leaving the fourth game of the American League playoffs in the fourth inning, more than a week ago.

"Figueroa threw twice over the weekend and he feels good," was Martin's first report. "We're just going to go six games. We're saving Torrez for starting training."

But after talking to the team trainer, Martin changed his mind.

"Figueroa said he feels almost 100 per cent but not quite 100 per cent," the manager said, "and I don't want to pitch a pitcher who isn't 100 per cent."

Martin might have been thinking back to Saturday's game, when the Dodgers started Doug Rau at something less than 100 per cent only to see him kayaked in the second inning.

For one of the few times in his Yankees career, the easygoing Figueroa refused to talk.

"I have nothing to say, nothing to say," he repeated, walking away from newsmen.

Confusion — it's wonderful.

When the Yankees, who fully expected to wrap up the Series Sunday after winning three of the first four games, recovered from their disappointment, they decided that taking two out of three in Los Angeles wasn't too shabby.

LMC Is 18th

BADGERS

And Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler couldn't have been happier with the performance of his southpaw signal caller.

"That was something special... a great performance by a great little quarterback," boasted Bo. "I just thought he picked them to pieces. He can beat you with his arm, his legs and with his head. He can beat you because he's a winner."

Schembechler wasn't passing out as much praise for first-time starter Smith... he needs a lot of work... (Harlan) Huckleby is our regular tail-back."

But the sophomore showed promise with 157 yards rushing in 25 carries, including two touchdown runs of two yards each. Huckleby, a high school teammate of Smith in Detroit, had a pulsed muscle and didn't play, although Schembechler said the nation's No. 13 rusher (113 yards per game) was available if needed.

Michigan's other touchdowns came on a 37-yard run by full-back Russell Davis, who finished with 105 yards in 19 carries, plus runs of three yards each by substitutes Stanley Edwards and Brian Dickey.

Wisconsin, which had built its perfect season against teams which had combined 4-22 records before Saturday, helped the Michigan cause with five turnovers. The Wolverines converted three into TDs on scoring drives of 36, 11 and 4 yards.

The victory before 104,894 fans... Michigan's third largest crowd in history and the 13th straight over 100,000... raised the Wolverine record to 6-0. They are also tied with Ohio State for the Big Ten lead at 4-0.

Michigan led Wisconsin 21-0 at halftime Saturday on a damp, dreary afternoon, and with the victory in hand much of the crowd turned to other interests over the last two quarters. They chanted the usual vulgarities and cheered wildly when a Michigan cheerleader easily beat a Wisconsin counterpart in a hand-walking race across the end zone.

The game attracted a lot of interest by bowl scouts. It was reported that representatives of five different post-season bowls were on hand. Right now it looks like the loser of the Michigan-Ohio State game will go to the Orange Bowl.

Everything wasn't joyous in Michigan's camp Saturday, though. Michigan lost starting offensive right guard John Arbenz with a serious knee injury and two defensive middle guards, Steve Graves and Tom Melita, with less serious injuries.

"We lost our seventh offensive lineman and you can lose only so many players before it starts to hurt," declared Schembechler. "Right now we have 15 players who are injured, and I mean first or second string people."

"But there is something about this team. Someone always jumps in there and does well. But sometime we may run short, but I hope not. This is just one of those years."

In uniform Saturday for Wisconsin was former Lake Michigan Catholic standout George Welch, now a sophomore second string secondary man for the Badgers. He's also on the Wisconsin kick off team.

Wisconsin hosts Michigan State this Saturday, while Michigan travels to Minnesota.

Michigan Drivers Dominate

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Michigan drivers were in the spotlight at the Marty Robbins World Open 500 stock car race over the weekend.

Mike Eddy of Midland won the race — thwarting a late charge by Larry Delfino of Wausau, Wis.

Pole winner Bob Senneker of Dorr finished third, two laps down, and Dick Trickle, who had gone into the race as the country's winningest driver, started second but lost 40 laps when forced into the pits for mechanical problems.

"Everything went along perfectly for me all day long," Eddy said after posting the victory Sunday. "The car ran strong from start to finish."

His car's color, dark green, is considered taboo in stock car racing and Eddy occupied the No. 13 position on pit road. "No, I'm not a bit superstitious," he said.

The first car out of the race belonged to country western music singer Marty Robbins, who competes in some stock car events. Freddy Fryar, who qualified Robbins' car and started the race, was driving at the time.

Eddy received $11,300 of the $88,000 purse. The race was run in three hours, 27 minutes and 20 seconds before 18,000 spectators.

Roadrunners Finish 4th

MADISON, Wis. — Southwestern Michigan College's cross country team finished fourth at the Tom Jones Invitational held here Saturday.

Host University of Wisconsin won the team title with 36 points. Next came South Dakota State with 75, University of Wisconsin-Lacrosse at 116 and SMC totaled 118.

The top five finishers for the Roadrunners and their times were Kevin Higdon 18th (25:30), Steve Prazler 19th (25:31), Calvin McQueen 23rd (25:47), Jerry Friberg 24th (25:48) and Jim Trupani 34th (28:07).

Bruce Fisher of the University of Chicago Track Club won the race in a record time of 24:33 over the hilly course.

Grace Captures Soccer Victory

WATERVLIET — Grace Christian's soccer team used a second-half rally to beat New Hope Christian 4-2 Friday afternoon. Todd Sparks, Kevin Swartz, Wayne Quigley and Joe Wilkens scored the goals for Grace, now 4-3 in the Michigan Christian Athletic Association's Western Division.

Grace hosts Faith Christian of Mattawan at 4 p.m. next Friday.

"We will. We must," said Green Bay linebacker Jim Carter.

"Football is not fun when you don't win," he said. "Practice can be hell. It's hard enough when you do win."

Carter said the Packers are ahead of only one other team in the National Football Conference Central Division. The Lions are second with a 3-2 record, behind Minnesota's 4-1 and Chicago's 3-3.

The Packers blew many chances to score big. One of their scoring bids was destroyed by a Barney interception at the 27 in the second quarter and another when he picked off one at the 20.

Green Bay had in settle for a 21-yard field goal from Jeff Blanton. Chester Marcol in the first quarter after former Eastern Michigan star Dave Purefoy recovered Horace King's fumble at the Lions 8-yard-line.

Mike-Mayer kicked a 23-yarder the next period when Detroit's 73-yard drive bogged down. His 44-yard try 1 1/2 minutes before halftime was blocked by Ezra Johnson. Willie Buchanan recovered, but fumbled it away to the Lions' Gary Danielson. Mike-Mayer then missed a 29-yard field goal try on the last play of the half.

Marcol kicked a 32-yarder in the third period — the first points for Green Bay in the second half this year.

While Mike-Mayer was muffed, Starr had more reason to be displeased. His team lost again.

"It's very, very frustrating," he said. "We played exceptional defense. We had all the opportunities we ever wanted. But both teams seemed to make mistakes and could not capitalize. We finally got the type of defense I think we're capable of playing. But we just didn't get enough points on the board — although we did finally score in the second half this year."

"We were really hurt by the two tipped interceptions and that's not necessarily the fault of the quarterback," he said, "but rather just ill fate and bad luck."

He said the Packers have "great morale," but, "the team is becoming frustrated and poised disappears with frustration. We have to try to maintain our poise."

Carter, who had five solo tackles and five assists, said, "We will get it together and we will come back."

Hudspeth, meanwhile, said the Lions "went all out." "Green Bay did a good job," he said. "They came off the ball well and placed us in the third down situation where they knew we were going to have to pass."

Translated, that means Landry usually tried conservative running plays off tackle the first two downs before deciding to pass. He did wind up with 18 completions in 26 attempts for 150 yards and no interceptions. Despite the fans' displeasure, his statistics should keep him close to the top in NFC quarterback ratings.

Barney, who recovered a fumble two weeks earlier to save a triumph over Philadelphia, was happy with his performance — which included six tackles. He returned one of his interceptions 22 yards.

"To enjoy yourself you have to have peace of mind and be healthy," he said. "This week I felt good in practice."

Hudspeth said he told Barney it was his best game in two years.

There were only 411 total yards gained in the game, 149 by the Packers and 262 by Detroit. Compare that, for instance, with the Wisconsin-Michigan college game, Saturday when Michigan alone had 416 yards rushing.

"I think we were somewhat the victims of ill-fated things," Starr complained.

Next Sunday the Packers take on the Buccaneers in Tampa, while the Lions visit San Francisco to face the struggling 4-0ers.

"I feel we should have won the game," said the Bears' Walter Payton, who amassed 122 yards in 24 carries for his fourth 100-yard game of the season and 13th of his career.

That total was surpassed by Chuck Foreman of Minnesota, who piled up 160 yards in 26 carries. It was his first 100-yard game of the season but the 12th of his career.

Foreman scored the first touchdown of the game and his fourth of the season with a 2-yard run in the first quarter. Avellini had lost a fumble on the Minnesota 50 to set up the score.

Another lost fumble on the subsequent kickoff put Cox in position for his first field goal.

Yet another break gave Minnesota the ball on its own 38 in the second quarter when a punt by Chicago's Bob Parsons rolled backwards 20 yards for a net kick of only five yards. An 18-yard burst up the middle by Foreman set up the second field goal, putting Minnesota ahead 13-0.

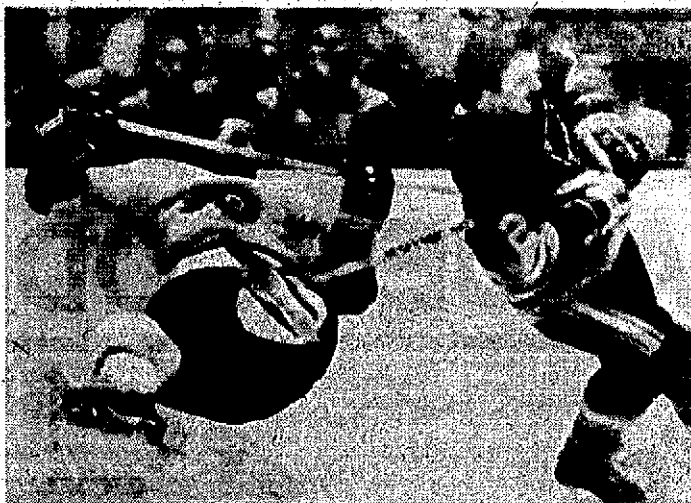

Avellini drove the Bears 68 yards in six plays just before halftime to cut the margin to 13-6. The 6-foot-5 Blair, who later saved the game with a blocked field goal, leaped high to block the extra point.

"We came in knowing they are the best (kick) blocking team in the NFL," said Thomas. "I tried to get the ball up. I felt I hit them well — you just have to hit it perfect against these guys."

The Bears attempt to rebound at home Sunday against the Atlanta Falcons, 3-2 and tied with Los Angeles for the Western Division lead in the NFC. The Vikings play the Rams a week from tonight on the West Coast.

The Vikings have defeated four straight divisional opponents after the opening overtime loss to the unbeaten Dallas Cowboys.

"You've got to beat the people in your division," said defensive end Carl Eller. "This makes our season look a lot better. Hopefully, when the season is over we'll be in the playoffs."

No Area Qualifiers For State Tennis

No southwestern Michigan girl netters advanced past the regionals held Friday and Saturday at three different sites.

The best the area girls could do was a first by South Haven's Tina Markstrom in No. 3 singles at Plainwell in Class B.

Under new rules adopted this year, only the first two schools and the No. 1 singles winner, if she isn't a member of a qualifying team, goes to the state meet.

The Rams were third at Plainwell. Hastings won with 22 points while South Haven had nine. Muskegon Mona Shores was the Class A regional at Holland with 23 points. Holland was next with 21, while St.

Joseph tied for fourth with seven points and Niles tied for ninth with three points.

At Vicksburg, Sturgis won the team title with 24 points. Kalamazoo Hackett was second at 20. Paw Paw came in seventh with three points and Brandywine garnered one point.

The South Haven Junior defeated Robin Krauss of Oshtemo 7-6, 6-3. Sandy VanDyk of Pennfield 6-4, 6-0. Linda Halvenga of Midland 7-6, 6-2 and then topped Denise Court of Harper Creek in the finals 7-6, 4-6, 7-5.

"Her hardest match was against Hackett," reported Coach Terry Hutchins. "Everybody except the second doubles team won their first round matches, but three of them had to play first or second seeds in the next round and were knocked out.

Ten St. Joseph netters made it past the second round, but lost in the semis. Torre Hamgren topped Alicia Medaca of Muskegon 6-0, 6-2 and Janet Carlson of Grand Rapids Union 6-0, 6-4 before losing in the third singles to eventual champ Kelli Driscoll of Holland 6-1, 6-2.

The other girl was Cheryl Heaps in fourth singles. She beat Niles' Mindy Davis 4-6, 6-2, 6-1 and Judy Hoogewind of Kentwood 6-2, 7-5. She then lost to champ Stacy Strub of Mona Shores 6-2, 6-0.

M And M Foods Unbeaten At Paw Paw

PAW PAW — M and M Foods upped its record to 3-0 with a 52-47 win over Peirson Realty Sportsman in Paw Paw Men's basketball league play Sunday night.

Jim VanSweden led the winners with 18 and Dave Buchanan had 14 for the losers. # Coaching Cradle Swinging Again

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Cradle of Coaches is swinging again. Miami's Redskins are back in their accustomed position, first in the Mid-American Conference.

Miami, known as the cradle for sending 200 coaches into pro, college and scholastic ranks, suffered through its first losing college football season (3-8) in 34 years a season ago.

That was embarrassing for a powerhouse that had won the MAC title 11 times in the league's three decades.

It's like old times in 1977. Miami, even though it has played just one league game, a 28-24 squeaker over Ohio University Saturday, rides in first place. All of its fellow challengers have lost at least once.

But it may be a short-lived honeymoon for Miami. The Redskins risk their league lead this week at Bowling Green (31), one of six conference teams with one or fewer losses.

Something also has to give when Kent State (3-1), the leader until Saturday's 14-10 loss to Bowling Green, visits secondplace Eastern Michigan (4-1) Saturday.

Elsewhere, preseason favorite Western Michigan leveled its record at 2-2 by keeping Toledo winless 28-7, off-injured tailback Jerome Persell scoring three times and rushing for 182 yards.

Ball State, the 1976 champion, remained in contention at 3-1. The Cardinals clipped winless Northern Illinois 31-6. Ball State quarterback Dave Wilson ran for one touchdown and passed for another.

Eastern Michigan and Central Michigan took Saturday off.

Larry Fortner's second touchdown pass, a 23-yard strike to Steve Joeken with under five minutes left, produced Miami's fifth straight come-from-behind victory. Fortner hit 12 of 16 passes for 178 yards.

Beckman Will Lead Dystrophy Fund Drive

The Southwest Michigan Chapter of Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America today announced the appointment of St. Joseph Township Fire Chief Fred Beckman to head the area's 1977 March for Muscular Dystrophy to be held during the last week of October and first three weeks of November in Berrien, Cass, Van Buren, Allegan and St. Joseph counties. The appointment was announced by Robert L. Hickman, president of the local M.D.A.A. chapter.

In accepting the appointment, Beckman said, "Fifty-eight fire departments, skate-a-thons, and volunteers raised nearly $62,000.00 last year, to bring the grand total of money raised by the local chapter to $155,895.00 since the first drive in 1954." The 1976 Drive was headed by Jerry Beasley of St. Joseph Township.

Beckman has been a member of the St. Joseph Township Department No. 1 for 25 years and has been chief for 12 years. He lives at 3525 Washington Ave., with his wife, Lorraine; two daughters and a son. Beckman has taken part in all of the Dystrophy drives since 1964.

When questioned about a goal for the drive, Beckman said, "The 1,500 fire fighters and volunteers who conduct the Southwest Michigan area drive have consistently chosen not to set a goal because they believe that the average giver makes his contribution to help save the lives of nearly a quarter million victims of Dystrophy and not because he has a goal to reach."

This philosophy has been confirmed, he said, because donations to the drive have continued to increase for 24 years, and have shown over 500 percent increase. He also said that funds collected in the local drive are used to continue the research in an all-out effort to find a cure for this disease and to carry on a comprehensive patient care program which serves 75 local victims of Dystrophy and several other related diseases with a wide variety of orthopedic services and equipment including, wheelchairs, hospital beds, braces, lifts, body casts and physical therapy, all designed to keep the patient comfortable until a cure can be found.

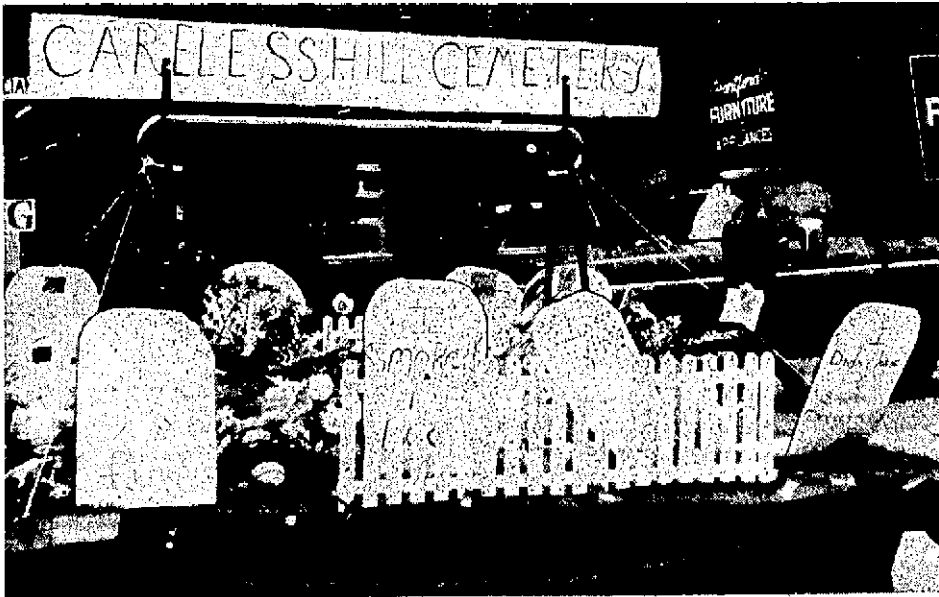

Beckman stressed the fact that Muscular Dystrophy Association spends 83 percent of all funds collected for basic research and patient care. The Southwest Michigan chapter spends $12,000-$15,000 dollars annually to provide the services and equipment for its 75 local patients.

Most of the 75 fire departments in southwest Michigan will conduct their house-to-house drive the last two weeks of October and first two weeks of November.

Beckman expressed hope that area residents would continue their fine support of this worthy cause headed by Comedian Jerry Lewis.

Regional Teacher Union Faces Test

BY AL AREND
Staff Writer
BUCHANAN — The proposed organization of a regional bargaining agent for teachers in eight south Berrien County school districts gets its first test when teachers here vote Tuesday on whether to join the regional group.

Teachers will be voting on whether to be represented by a proposed new Buchanan 5-C Education Association; to continue to be represented by the Buchanan Education Association; or no union at all.

The teachers had sought the vote to change to the regional 5-C group. The vote was agreed upon in late September after meeting between representatives of teachers, school administration and Michigan Employment Relations Commission.

The Buchanan vote will be the first such balloting on the 5-C issue. The 5-C area takes in school districts in southern Berrien county. MERC has yet to rule on similar requests by teachers in River Valley and Brandywine.

The Buchanan vote will be held in the media center of the middle school from 2:30 to 5 p.m.

Besides Buchanan, River Valley and Brandywine, the 5-C region also covers Berrien Springs, Niles, Eau Claire, New Buffalo, Gallien and the Berrien county Intermediate school district.

New Buffalo teachers had also requested such a change in agents, but the issue was delayed when teachers and the school district agreed to extend their present master contract.

POLICE ROUNDUP

Stabbing Victim In 'Fair' Condition

A Bridgman man was listed in "fair" condition this morning in Memorial Hospital after he allegedly was stabbed by a woman early Saturday while sitting in his car at a Lincoln Township service station, according to state police of the Benton Harbor post.

Troopers in a report filed Sunday afternoon said Trevor Ward, 36, of 4440 Oak St., was transported to the hospital by Lake Township Ambulance Saturday after he drove himself to his parents' Bridgman home.

Ward had sustained a knife wound in the upper right chest and underwent emergency surgery, according to Trooper Doug Murphy.

The trooper said the alleged stabbing apparently occurred at Glenford Arco Service, Red Arrow Highway at Glenford Road, at about 12:10 a.m. Service station attendants were not aware of the stabbing, Murphy said.

Murphy reported Ward told him he did not remember being stabbed but recalled driving in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ward, of 4309 Lake St., after being wounded.

The stabbing was originally reported to Bridgman police but was turned over to state police at 2 p.m. Sunday when it was determined the alleged incident occurred in Lincoln Township.

Sharon Kaminsky, of 7817 Jericho Rd., Lincoln Township, told police she had been riding with Ward but was forced to leave his auto by a woman armed with a knife when Ward stopped to buy gasoline, according to Murphy.

Murphy said Sharon Kaminsky told him the woman held a knife to her ribs and told her to leave, and as she walked away, the woman leaned into the driver's window of Ward's car.

Sharon Kaminsky reported she was forced to accept a ride with the woman a few moments after she began walking from the station, but was released unharmed about a half-hour later at Stevensville, according to Murphy.

Murphy said troopers' investigation of the incident is continuing and no arrests have been made.

Benton Township police said a 15-year-old Benton Harbor boy was arrested at 5:38 p.m. Saturday in connection with a reported break-in at Benton Harbor Area Schools' Skill Center, 373 S. Fair Ave., in the township.

Township Patrolman Jimmie Coburn said he answered an alarm from the center, along with Benton Harbor police. Coburn said Benton Harbor police arrived first and took the boy into custody after he allegedly ran from the center, closed at the time. Nothing was taken from the center.

Coburn said the boy was booked for investigation of a charge of breaking and entering and was to be petitioned to juvenile court. He was released to his mother, Coburn said.

Benton Harbor police reported these thefts over the weekend:

—Three televisions, a shotgun and a stereo valued at a total of $810 from the home of Franklin Bolt, of 362 Broadway.

—A leather coat and two televisions valued at a total of $450 from the home of Sharon Moore, 380 N. Stevens St.

—A male German Shepherd valued at $300 from the yard of Alvin Lee, 467 E. Emplre.

—A CB radio valued at $76 from an auto owned by Asie Gaines, of Route 2, Box 82, Covert, while the car was parked near the intersection of Clay and Superior.

Benton Township police reported they were told by John Hodge, of 654 Baird St., Benton Harbor, a 65-horsepower outboard motor valued at a $600 was stolen from a boat he had stored in a carport at 777 E. Napier Ave.

Arnel Benson, of 2187 Holly Drive, reported the battery was stolen from her car which was parked in the driveway of her home Saturday night through Sunday afternoon, township police said.

an auto owned by Howard Hunter, of 1446 E. Britain Ave., as vandals caused damage estimated at $200, according to Benton Township police. Officers said it is believed the damage occurred between 9 p.m. Saturday and 10:20 a.m. Sunday.

In a second vandalism report, township officers said Ray Strasberg, of 4850 E. Britain, told them a private gas pump at his home was broken off at about 11:30 p.m. Saturday when it was struck by an unknown auto that left the scene.

Jim Mills, of 3311 Thor Rd., Hagar Township, told Berrien Sheriff's officers Sunday a mailbox in front of his home was broken off its support and two bricks were thrown through a window on his son Tim's auto which was parked nearby, deputies said. Officers said Mills reported vandalism apparently occurred between midnight Saturday and 8 a.m. Sunday.

Dale T. Potter, of 604 W. John Beers Rd., Lincoln Township, also filed a vandalism complaint with deputies, reporting that valve stems on three tires on his car were cut between 8 and 8:30 p.m. Sunday while the auto was parked on St. Joseph Avenue in Stevensville.

In another report of damaged property, deputies said Janice Ulter, of 1327 W. Glenford Rd., Lincoln Township, told them a large rock was thrown at her garage early Sunday, smashing a hole in a door.

Driver Is Hospitalized

NEW BUFFALO — Joan Oszust, 28, of 821 East Buffalo St., New Buffalo, was hospitalized Sunday afternoon following a two-car accident on US-12 at Whittaker Street, New Buffalo city police reported.

A spokesman at St. Anthony's Hospital, Michigan City, Ind., said this morning Miss Oszust was being held for observation of injuries suffered in the 2:30 p.m. crash.

Police said an auto driven by Miss Oszust was attempting to turn left from Whittaker onto US-12 when it crashed with a car driven west on the highway by Nancy Oselka, 26, Route 1, Union Pier. Miss Oselka was not injured in the crash. Police said Miss Oszust was ticketed for making an improper left turn.

Cash Box Is Emptied

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Two thefts were reported to Berrien Springs-Orinoko Township police over the weekend.

Cash amounting to $929 and checks totaling $2,000 were reported missing from a cash box at the Andrews University Airport here. Police said the cash and checks were discovered missing Friday morning by David Willauer, an airport employee. There was no sign of forced entry to the office, police said.

Raymond Skorupa, Garr Road, Berrien Springs, reported an M-1 rifle and ammunition clip, all valued at $125, were missing from his home. Police said the theft could have occurred anytime since Aug. 15, performed at Mercy Hospital by Dr. Richard Lininger, a Berrien county assistant medical examiner, who ruled death was caused by a gunshot wound to the upper chest. Parsons said Hughes also sustained a minor gunshot wound to the right hip.

Parsons said a .22-caliber pistol was believed used. No weapon was located.

The shooting was reported at 1:39 a.m., shortly after a township police officer had driven past. Patrolman David Nelson said he drove past the bar on patrol, but saw only a few people and nothing suspicious. Nelson said soon afterwards he was dispatched to the shooting scene and found a large crowd outside.

Kenneth Hughes was born Feb. 15, 1950, in Detroit, Mich. Surviving are his wife, Denise; two sons, Kenneth Jr. and Marcus, both of Benton Harbor; his mother, Mrs. Willie Hughes and his father, Anderson Hughes, both of Benton Harbor; four brothers, Royce, Benton Harbor, Robert, Lewis and Anderson, all of Muncie, Ind.; a stepbrother, Kerbert Davis, Detroit; two sisters, Wilma Davis, Benton Harbor and Mrs. Elmer James, Detroit.

Funeral services will be held at 1 p.m. Friday in Pilgrim Rest Baptist Church. Burial will be in Crystal Springs cemetery. Friends may call at Robbins Brothers Funeral Home beginning Thursday.

LIQUOR SEIZED: Trooper Michael Kempfer of Benton Harbor state police post examines liquor he said was seized when car was stopped Saturday at Niles Road interchange off I-94, St. Joseph Township. Kempfer reported 84 bottles of liquor allegedly untaxed in Michigan were confiscated. Booked for investigation of charges of possession of untaxed liquor were David A. Body, 26, Madison Heights, Mich., the driver, and Kenneth D. Schrader, 25, Redford, Mich. Kempfer reported a speeding auto was observed on eastbound I-94 about 1:50 p.m. and stopped at service station at interchange after brief chase. Kempfer said seized whiskey, rum, gin and vodka, allegedly were obtained in Chicago for a wedding in the Detroit area. Post reported liquor seized as worth $714, by Illinois prices that are lower than in Michigan. Liquor was to be held for evidence. Liquor, if determined to have been transported illegally, would be sent to Michigan Liquor Control Commission for resale to Michigan liquor stores. (Staff photo)

South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — A Western Michigan University student was rescued by friends after she was washed into the channel of the Black River by a wave early Sunday, according to city police here.

Mary Barton, 17, of Birmingham, Mich., did not require medical attention after friends pulled her from the river about 1:22 a.m., police said.

Slaying Suspects In Court

Two Niles men accused in the slaying death of Virginia May Chew, 18, were jailed without bond Saturday after being arraigned in Berrien Fifth District Court, St. Joseph, on two-count warrants charging murder.

The two were charged with murder in Count 1 of the warrants and with felony murder in Count 2. The felony murder counts allege that the men killed Miss Chew "while in the perpetration or attempted perpetration of a rape."

Demanding preliminary examinations on the charges are Charles Alvord, 19, of 1316 Oak St., and Barton Shank, 18, of 718 S. Third St. The two were ordered jailed by Judge Len Cook.

In the open murder counts, a Circuit Court jury if the cases in trial would determine whether the murder was first or second degree.

Miss Chew, of 607 N. Third St., was found dead in the bedroom of her home Friday morning by her fiancé, Ray Davis, 16, according to Niles police. It is believed she was killed sometime between midnight and 7 a.m. Her fiancé told police he last saw her at the house about 11 p.m. Thursday night when he left for work. Davis also lived at the house, according to police.

Alvord and Shank have previous convictions on sex charges stemming from a July 1976 assault against a 16-year-old Niles girl. Shank was convicted of fourth degree criminal sexual conduct and Alvord of second degree criminal sexual conduct in that case.

U.S. Indians Really Indians?

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — When Christopher Columbus pronounced the inhabitants of the New World "Indians," a researcher says he may not have been mistaken after all. Dr. Joseph B. Mahan researched the matter here and abroad, and he concludes that members of certain tribes now living in Oklahoma are direct descendants of people who established a flourishing civilization in India more than 50 centuries ago. Mahan, 30, is executive director of a historic reconstruction project near Lumpkin, Ga., called Westville Village.

He and his wife, Kathryn, a musicologist, received a grant for a five-month study in Pakistan and India, tracing similarities among American Indians and ancient civilizations of the Indus Valley. Writing in the autumn issue of Oklahoma Today, the official state magazine, Mahan claims to have found "positive" evidence linking the cultures and supporting migrations to America.

Mahan says he has discovered that the names of peoples who inhabited the Bronze Age cities now called Harappa and Mohenjo-daro coincide in at least a dozen cases with names of American Indian tribes or 19th century Indian settlements found by European explorers. Besides the linguistic ties, Mahan says there are also significant parallels between American Indians and the Indus Valley civilization in physical characteristics, pottery and craft work, style of dress and religious philosophy. But he says the most convincing similarity is among the names the peoples called themselves.

American Indian tribes including the Yuchi, Shawnee, Sac and Fox, Creeks and Cherokees were almost certainly descended from the wandering remnants of the Indus Valley civilization, Mahan says. Writing a doctoral dissertation at the University of North Carolina, Mahan says he became convinced that the Yuchi brought a "fully developed and highly sophisticated" culture into the southeastern United States from somewhere outside the area.

After his research in India and Pakistan, Mahan says he is now sure that culture was developed in the Indus Valley.

Westinghouse Electric, the early volume leader among NYSE issues, dropped 1/2 to 17.

Gold stocks advanced with the London bullion price crossing the $100 level to its highest point in more than two years.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average rose 3.47 to 821.64, reducing its loss for the week to 18.71 points.

But losers slightly outnumbered gainers on the NYSE.

Pollution Commission Meets Here

The Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission will hold its monthly meeting at 7:30 p.m. today, and at 9 a.m. Tuesday, at the Ramada Inn off M-139, Benton Township.

Tonight's agenda includes a report on the status of air quality over Southwestern Michigan. The agenda for Tuesday includes a final adoption of administrative rule changes to govern extension of sulfur dioxide content from industries, such as power plants, beyond Jan. 1, 1980.

Tractor Safety Course Set

A tractor operation and machinery safety course for area youths will be held at Tractor Land Sales in Eau Claire from October through March, according to Larry Cushman, Berrien County 4-H agent.

Cushman said the program will start Thursday, Oct. 27 from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. and run on successive Thursday nights until March. Upon successful completion of the course, students who are 14 years old and over will be awarded U.S. Department of Labor tractor and machinery operator permits. Students will be required to attend all meetings and satisfactorily pass written and operator tests.

Cushman noted that, under the current labor law, youngsters who are under 18 years of age cannot be hired to operate farm equipment or do specifically defined hazardous farm jobs without this permit. Failure to comply can result in a $10,000 fine to the employer.

Farm families can enroll children 13 or over in the course by contacting the Berrien County Extension Service. The deadline for enrollment is Oct. 28.

Much Of Michigan Has Record Lows

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Clear skies across Michigan brought record cold temperatures to several cities overnight, but southwestern Michigan thermometers remained at a higher level.

Area lows during the night included a 35 at the Coast Guard station in St. Joseph, a 30-degree reading at the Herb Teichman farm, Eau Claire, and 25 at Paw Paw, according to Harry Bush, public works superintendent.

Pellston's 19 tied the city's record low for the date set in 1932. It was one of the coldest places in the country this morning.

Detroit dipped to 23 early today for a record. The previous mark was 27 in 1970.

The mercury fell to 25 at Flint, freezing out the old record of 26 set in 1952. Muskegon's 25 this morning was record cold for the date, wiping out the 1932 mark of 26. Muskegon also reported light snow late Sunday and early today. It was the city's second dusting of the season.

The National Weather Service at Detroit forecast more chilly temperatures and partly cloudy skies for tonight.

Niles Township Recall Battle In Appeals Court

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau
NILES — The Michigan Court of Appeals in Grand Rapids is scheduled to hear Tuesday a petition by six Niles Township board members who want the court to block an Oct. 25 recall election against them.

The court will decide whether to accept the case for immediate consideration, according to M. Sherman Drew, township treasurer and an attorney.

The suit seeks to overturn a Sept. 19 ruling by Berrien County Circuit Court Judge Zae Burkholz who dismissed the board's suit to block the election. The recall is the result of a petition drive by the Niles Township Taxpayers' Association.

Drew said that if the appeals court granted the immediate consideration motion, a hearing on the case would be held prior to the Oct. 25 vote. If not, he added, the case would not come up for a hearing until sometime in December.

The six board members filing the appeal, and also target of the recall election, are Drew, Clerk William Barthel, and

In her ruling, Judge Burkholz said that issues in the recall were political rather than a judicial question.

At issue in the recall is a controversial reassessment of property in the township, which the taxpayers group claims the board allowed to be implemented.

City Gets Federal Grant

DOWAGIAC — The city of Dowagiac has been awarded a $304,600 federal community development grant. Mayor Graham Woodhouse has announced.

The Housing and Urban Development agency grant will be used to fund a variety of programs, according to City Manager Henry Graper Jr., including: rehabilitation of housing in the city; extension of sewer and water lines; further development of Rotary Park, and paving of streets.

Including the latest grant, the city has received a total of $775,949 under the program. Dowagiac received the total $394,000 it had applied for in the latest grant, Graper said.

A breakdown of the grant and the programs it will fund include $100,000 for loans and grants to rehabilitate housing; $30,000 for the purchase of land and demolition of substandard buildings; $100,000 for water and sewer line extensions; $40,000 for parks and recreation; and $24,000 for street paving.

Graper said that 41 homes in the city have already been rehabilitated under the program with previous grant funds and it is hoped 30 more will be added to the list.

Car Stop Leads To Arrest

GALLEN — A Gary, Ind., man was booked for investigation of a charge of possession of cocaine Sunday night after Berrien Sheriff's officers stopped an auto on US-12 at Cleveland Avenue in Galle.

Deputies John Clark and Gordon Drake reported they stopped an auto that allegedly had been speeding. The officers said they then found eight small packets of suspected cocaine and arrested the driver of the car.

Lodged in the Berrien County Jail on a charge of violating the controlled substance act (possession of cocaine) was Rodney E. Graves, 24, Clark and Drake said. Also arrested according to the officers, was Vickie Lynn Riggs, 20, of Gary, who was booked on a charge of carrying open intoxicants (beer) in a motor vehicle.

No ticket was issued for speeding, Clark and Drake said.

Just Add Water...Instant Booze!

WASHINGTON (AP) — The ultimate in the dry martini may be headed for the American market — powdered booze.

The Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms is studying powdered alcohol, developed by a Japanese firm and being considered for sale in pre-mixed cocktails. The actual alcohol, still in liquid form, is in tiny particles suspended in a powder that looks like a gelatin desert mix. And, in fact, the first sales of the product in Japan have been as a rose wine gelatin.

But cocktails in small cans or foil packets are being studied for the American market. Global Marketing of Seattle, said distribution in this country depends on how the Treasury Department decides to tax the product. A Treasury Department spokesman, who said the product's safety will be checked, noted that officials were having some problems deciding how to apply tax laws written for liquid alcohol to a powder. Mike Hill of Global Marketing said initial plans, if the government approves, call for cocktails that could be made by simply adding water to the product. He noted that there are pre-mixed cocktails on the market, as well as powdered mixes to which the drinker adds his own alcohol to make a cocktail, but said this powder would be less bulky and easier to use.

With the powdered product, for example, a customer could tear open an envelope, add water and have a whiskey sour, daiquiri, Bloody Mary or other cocktail. Hill said. A government spokesman said the product could have a substantial effect on alcohol use, notably by campers and others carrying food into the wilds.

Gill Net Trial To Start

ESCANABA, Mich. (AP) — Twenty-seven commercial fishermen who want to use gill nets banned by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources will have their day in court beginning Nov. 14. That's the date scheduled for the start of trial in a lawsuit challenging the DNR ban. Delta County Circuit Judge Clair Huhn scheduled the trial after meeting with lawyers for the DNR and the fishermen. The judge will decide whether each fisherman is entitled to use gill nets to catch whitefish. The DNR has issued licenses which bar the use of gill nets. The state banned their use because gill nets snag sports fish and sometimes kill them.

Business District Issue Heats Up In Buchanan

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau
BUCHANAN — Controversy over the first phase of improvements to the Buchanan business district has heated up with a downtown merchant's criticism of City Manager Robert Faulhaber's handling of the project.

In statements made for release today, Keith Welsh, owner of the Stationery Center, took issue with several comments made by Faulhaber during a Buchanan City Commission meeting last Tuesday.

During the session, Faulhaber said the $235,000 project was in jeopardy because several downtown property owners would not sign easements that would permit construction to begin, perhaps as soon as this week.

Faulhaber sought unsuccessfully at the Oct. 11 session to launch condemnation proceedings in order to obtain easements from owners of land along the north side of Front Street. The proposed legal action could come before the commission again in a special meeting set for tonight.

The burden in the agency. If the agency fails to demonstrate that a particular proposed set of rules conforms to the statute, the Committee does not approve the rules within 90 days, and the burden is on the agency to have a concurrent resolution introduced and passed before the rules may be implemented.

There are some already complaining, saying that the government wants to tell you what to buy and how much to buy. But it's my honest belief that if the government is paying the bill, they have a right to tell you how much and what to buy.

Let's take a good look at ourselves, our neighbors, and our children — in particular. As parent and adults are we setting a good example for our children? Are we teaching them the things that will help them become respectable men and women? If you answered yes, hats off to you, but if not, then I ask you to do something about it. I become very disturbed when I hear a group of people getting together to ask our local and state officials to do things for us that we could do for ourselves.

The harrassments from I.L.E.W., O.S.I.A., labor unions, the mountains of paper work, — etc. brings to mind a clause or two from the Declaration of Independence: "He has created a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people, and eat out their substance"; and "He has combined with others to subject us to jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation."

In closing, let me say — I am sorry we the American People have let you down. I regret your decision.

Bursitis: A Painful Experience For Anyone

Although bursitis is most common among people in middle age and past, it can strike anyone. Indeed, the terms "housemaid's knee," "tennis elbow," and "working man's disorder" indicate the broad scope of sufferers.

"Because it can occur in different parts of the body, the victim may think he has arthritis, rheumatism, or neuritis," explains Dr. Ackerman D.C., of Ackerman Chiropractic Center. "The pain may be similar in all of these, but the difference lies in the cause of the pain."

Dr. Ackerman explained that tiny, fluid-filled sacs called bursa serve as a cushion wherever muscles, tendons, and joints need protection from friction, stress, or shock.

"If a bursa becomes irritated due to excessive stress, inflammation develops and we have bursitis," Dr.

Ackerman continues. "At this stage, pain is felt as friction develops between the bursa walls and the tendons and muscles which are no longer cushioned by fluid."

The good Doctor pointed out that if bursitis is not treated quickly and effectively, the victim may soon find that even limited movement in the affected area is painful. At first, the pain may be a gnawing ache, eventually blossoming into a sharp and excruciating agony. Such simple acts as combing the hair or putting on a coat become difficult if a shoulder bursa is involved.

"As far as treatment is concerned, the inflammation must be reduced quickly and effectively," concludes Dr. Ackerman. "If care is obtained when pain first develops, there's a good chance this painful condition can be nipped in the bud."

Big Oil Carter's 'Moral Equivalent' Of An Enemy

By WALTER E. MEARS

AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — In order to wage the moral equivalent of war, you need the moral equivalent of an enemy. Without villains, there's no way to keep score.

So President Carter has fixed his sights for the new phase of his energy campaign, zeroing in on the oil industry he accuses of plotting history's biggest ripoff.

The issue may not be quite that simple, and the tactic may not gain congressional approval of the legislation he wants. But at least it will be more colorful now that he's settled on somebody to campaign against.

As is the case in time of war, there is potential war profiteering in the impending energy crisis," Carter said last Thursday. "This could develop with the passing months as the biggest ripoff in history."

He went on to suggest that only the enactment of his energy program will insure the American consumer against robbery by the oil and gas companies. He read them out of the free enterprise system "because prices are not free," but instead influenced by OPEC oil rates and by industry control over the rate of production.

And that was just for openers in a campaign Carter said will take most of his time during the next few weeks. He'll be pushing his energy plan during a five-state swing later this month. Vice President Walter F. Mondale and Cabinet members are to be deployed to push the administration's energy cause.

The White House plans to summon political and business leaders to a series of energy conferences, hoping that kind of persuasion will put pressure on members of Congress — especially the balky Senate — to vote for the Carter package.

One White House aide said there are more than a few people in policy and image-making positions who would like nothing better than to take on the oil industry with tough talk and tougher programs.

"They've been cautious so far, lest they get ahead of the President on the issue. Now Carter is ahead of them, speaking more harshly than his speechwriters would have dared propose."

Carter's real problem is in the Senate, which has stripped away the key elements of the energy program the House approved. His energy price and tax proposals are in grave trouble.

Carter used to blame the Senate, suggesting at one point that it was too responsive to lobbyists, and warning that it should look after its own reputation. Then he blamed lobbyists for all the trouble.

But none of that had the political punch of his slap at the industry itself. Furthermore, his challenges to Congress tended to make congressmen angry, which was counterproductive.

So in the new campaign, he speaks kindly of the people who will be voting on his energy bills. According to Carter, even his Senate opponents are working long and hard to come up with an acceptable energy package.

He'll take part of the blame for past failures, and the American people will have to share it because they waste too much energy.

Nor is the whole problem the fault of the oil companies. Just enough of it to make them the prime administration target.

It's all there in the campaign textbook.

Franklin D. Roosevelt denounced the "economic royalists," as he accepted his second presidential nomination. Theodore Roosevelt said that "malefactors of great wealth" were partially responsible for panic on Wall Street 70 years ago.

Rotary Club To Hear Berrien CETA Chief

This overview will include information on the past and present impact of CETA on Berrien County, in both the economic and service areas, and the future of CETA as being considered by the Administration and Congress at the present time. A question-answer session will follow the presentation.

It is observed by other Michigan chapters and by similar groups in 80 nations in the free world.

Special Protection For River

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Pere Marquette River in western Lower Michigan has been tagged for special protection under a Natural Resources Commission program. The river has been designated a "natural river" meaning the use of its shorelands will be restricted to keep them in their current state. Local communities will be authorized to zone land along the river to restrict developments, and the state has final power to determine zoning plans and what uses of shorelands will be permitted. The designation applies to the entire river, which enters Lake Michigan near Ludington, as well as its tributary streams. The Pere Marquette is valued for its scenic, fishing and wildlife features.

Aging Panel Director Picked

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Elizabeth Ferguson of East Lansing has been appointed Director of the Office of Services in the Aging. Mrs. Ferguson is a placement specialist with the Department of Social Services. Her appointment is effective Oct. 31. The appointment, announced by Gov. William Milliken, must be confirmed by the state Senate.
